COORS EVENTS CENTER HONORED JERSEYS

#4 CHAUNCEY BILLUPS

One of the most talented players in Colorado basketball history, Chauncey Billups helped transform the Buffaloes into an NCAA tournament contender in the two years he played at CU ... At CU, led the Buffs to their first NCAA Tournament in over two decades, where CU topped perennial power Indiana in the opening round of the 1997 tournament ... As a sophomore was named a first-team All-American by the Basketball News, becoming the eighth All-American in Colorado history ... Named All-Big 12 first team by the league coaches and Associated Press in 1996-97 ... In two seasons in Boulder, he averaged 18.5 points, 5.6 rebounds, 5.1 assists in 55 games; also connected on 120 3-pointers and shot .857 (306-for-357) from the free throw line ... Set a then-CU freshman record (465 points; third today) and currently holds the freshman assists record (143) ... Entering the 2013-14 season, Billups continues to own the freshman scoring record of 33 points at Colorado State (Dec. 6, 1995) ... His hard work, dedication and exceptional basketball skills not only drew the attention of college basketball aficionados, but of professional teams as well. Billups was the No. 3 overall selection of the first round of the NBA Draft in 1997 by the Boston Celtics ... As a captain of the Detroit Pistons, Billups led the team to the NBA championship in 2004 earning the NBA Finals Most Valuable Player award by averaging 21 points and 5.2 assists in the five games ... He has played for seven NBA teams over his 16 years in the NBA, including the Denver Nuggets, where he helped lead Nuggets to a franchise-best 54 wins in 2008-09, the most since moving to the NBA ... He ranks among the top-five in 3-Pointers made (1,783); 3-Point FG attempts (4,587); and in free throw percentage (.894).

#4 SCOTT WEDMAN

A three-time letterman for Sox Walseth at Colorado, he ranks 18th all-time on CU's scoring chart entering the 2013-2014 season with 1,251 career points ... His 16.7 per game average, still ranks seventh best for a player with 75-plus games in a Buff uniform ... In 75 games, he converted 516 of 1,046 field goals, a solid 49.3 percent ... He twice earned All-Big Eight Conference honors, leading the Buffs in scoring as a junior (17.7 per game in 1972-73) and as a senior (20.0 in 1973-74); he was second as a sophomore with a 12.8 average in '71-72 ... One of just 12 players in school history to average 20 or more points in a season ... Scored his career high 32 points against Long Beach State his senior season ... He also led the team in rebounds with 9.3 per game both his junior and senior campaigns ... He was selected as a second-team member of the conference's all-decade team for the 1970s ... He played 12 years in the NBA with Kansas City, Cleveland and Boston, playing in 856 games with a 12.9 career scoring average, pouring in 11,027 points; he shot 48.2 percent from floor, 79.1 percent from the free throw line and 4.5 rebounds per game ... He won two championship rings with the Celtics (1984, 1986) and still shares the mark for field goal perfection in the postseason with two others when he hit all of 11 of shots, including four three-pointers, for 26 points in a win over the Los Angeles Lakers in Game 1 of the 1985 NBA Finals ... His No. 4 jersey was honored by CU in the spring of 2006 ... Inducted into the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame in 2007.

#13 CHUCK GARDNER

Charles "Chuck" Gardner was a three-time letterman under the legendary CU basketball coach Sox Walseth ... Gardner was a two-time first-team All-Big Eight Conference performer at center ... Excellent touch around the basket with a dangerous hook shot ... The 6-foot-8 Gardner led the Big Eight in scoring as a senior in 1965-66 with a 20.2 average ... Was also second in conference rebounding (9.8), field goal percentage (52.4) and fourth in free throw percentage (65.0). His finishing first or second in three categories and fourth in a fourth was the best all-around effort in its day ... Also had a team-best 52.4 field goal and 65.0 free throw percentage ... His 506 points during his senior year in 1965-66 ranks 25th in single-season scoring ... The 506 points was the third most scored at that time in school history ... Led the Big Eight in scoring during his junior campaign (16.9 ppg.) and third in field goal percentage (.485) ... Was also first on the team in rebounding (194, 8.1 rpg.) and fourth overall in the conference ... Scored 845 career points ranking No. 39 overall entering the 2012-2013 season, in addition to 486 rebounds, ranking 28 overall ... Was also an Academic All-American honorable mention ... Before entering private business, Gardner spent four seasons (1968-72) as an assistant coach under Walseth.

#20 JIM DAVIS

A three-year letterman under the legendary Sox Walseth, he earned first-team All-Big Eight honors from both the Associated Press and United Press international his junior (1962-63) and senior (1963-64) seasons ... CU was 53-24 in his career, winning two Big 8 titles and earning two trips to the NCAA Tournament ... He scored 1,110 career points converting 411-of-841 field goal attempts for a 48.9 percentage, considered very good for the day ... He averaged 14.4 points per game over his career, including 18.5 his senior season, when he also averaged 12.7 rebounds for a second straight season, leading the Big 8 both years ... With a 13.8 scoring norm as a junior, that makes him one of the few players in school history to average a double-double for two seasons (only four players in school history) ... Averaged 11.2 rebounds per game over his career (77 games) ... At the time of his graduation, he was CU's all-time leading rebounder and third all-time scorer (today he's fourth in rebounding, 23rd in scoring entering the 2012-2013 season) ... He was a fourth round selection by Detroit in the 1964 NBA Draft, but the 27th player overall in a 9-team league at the time ... Waived by the Pistons that September, he persevered and eventually signed as a free agent with the St. Louis Hawks in 1967; he went on to play for the Hawks, both in St. Louis and when they moved to Atlanta ... He was traded to Houston for a month during the 1971 season and finished up his career after being traded to Detroit ... He played eight seasons in all, scoring

3,997 points with his best year coming in 1969-70 when he averaged 13.6 points and 9.7 rebounds for Atlanta, helping the Hawks to a 48-34 record and first place in the NBA West Division ... From Muncie, Ind., where he prepped at Central High.

#20 BOB JEANGERARD

Three-year letterman (1952-1955) under head coach H.B. Lee ... Two-time All-Big Seven Conference first-team selection ... Member of two NCAA Tournament teams in 1953-54 and 1954-55 (Final Four) under coach H.B. Lee. ... Averaged 12.4 points and 6.1 rebounds per game during his collegiate career ... His senior year, he averaged 16 points and 6.8 rebounds per game, ranking second on the team in both categories

... CU won a then-school-best 19 games and reached the national semifinals falling to eventual champion San Francisco ... Named the NCAA Tournament Regional Most Outstanding Player ... Also that season, member of the CU team that rallied from a 23-point first half road deficit to edge Kansas State. The 23-point deficit remains to this day, a school record ... As a junior, he was second on the team in scoring (12.8 points per game) and rebounding (6.1 rpg.) ... as a sophomore, his tip-in at the buzzer defeated Oklahoma, 56-55 (Dec. 20, 1952) ... Entering the 2012-2013 season, ranks No. 39 in rebounding (413) and No. 41 in scoring (842) ... Member of the 1956 Olympic Gold Medal basketball team in Melbourne and scored a team-high 16 points in the gold medal game against the Soviet Union ... The U.S. team dominated the games and brought home the gold medal after going undefeated (8-0), winning those games by an average of 53.5 points; the U.S. defeated the USSR twice, 85-55 in the quarterfinals and 89-55 in the gold medal game. The team was loaded, with CU teammate Burdie Haldorson, his college teammate and close friend, and future NBA Hall of Famers, Bill Russell and K.C. Jones ... Jeangerard was the team's second-leading scorer when all was said and done, scoring exactly 100 points for a 12.5 average, behind only Russell's 14.1 ... In shooting a sizzling 60 percent from the field, practically unheard of in that day and age, he scored a team-high 16 points in the gold medal game, with a best of 21 points in a win over the Philippines ... In 1959, he was once again chosen to represent the U.S., playing on its team for the Pan American games. Teaming again with Haldorson and college basketball stars Oscar Robertson and Jerry West, the team again captured the gold medal ... Jeangerard went on to have an outstanding career in AAU ball ... He passed away in July 2014 at the age of 81 ... In June of 2014, he was announced as one of nine Buffaloes as a member of the 2014 CU Athletic Hall of Fame class, set for induction in October 2014.

#20 CLIFF MEELY

One of the pure prolific scorers and rebounders in the history of Colorado basketball, Cliff Meely remains either at or near the top in over a dozen statistical categories some four-plus decades later ... Meely still holds the mark for single game points (47) and season scoring (729), is second in rebounds (971), and third in career points (1,940) ... He owns the top two single season scoring averages in CU history: 28.0 as a senior in 1970-71, and 23.8 as a sophomore in 1968-69 ... His 12.1 rebounds per game career average remains one of the top numbers ever posted collegiately ... He led Colorado to the Big Eight Conference title in 1968-69 with a 21-7 record (10-4 mark in league play) ... A three-time All-Big Eight team member and first-team All-America honors as a senior ... Set 16 school and eight conference records during his career ... Additionally, Meely's 24.3 points per game scoring average is still a school record ... Overall, the Buffs won 49 games during his time on the CU campus under late coach Russell "Sox" Walseth, the fourth most over any three-year span in CU history ... His No. 20 jersey number is one of two retired in CU annals ... Meely went on to play six seasons in the National Basketball Association with the Houston Rockets and Los Angeles Lakers ... In 1995-96, Meely was named to the Associated Press' all-time Big Eight Conference Basketball first team (along with the-late Wayman Tisdale (Oklahoma), Danny Manning (Kansas), Jo Jo White (Kansas State), Rolando Blackman (Kansas State)) ... Meely was named to the NCAA's Silver Anniversary Award presented to six former collegiate athletes who have gained recognition or done great work in their postgraduate careers.

#22 BURDETTE HALDORSON

Burdette "Burdie" Haldorson, one of the early stars in the history of the University of Colorado men's basketball program, is one of just two retired basketball jerseys (No. 22) in school history and he left quite an imprint in the school's basketball annals ... The 6-7, 210-pound Austin, Minn., native still holds four school rebounding records some five decades after his CU playing days, including the most in a half (21), game (31) and season (346) ... As a senior in 1954-55, he led the Buffs to the Big Seven title averaging 23.9 points per game, and was also named as a first-team All-American ... CU eventually went on to finish third in the nation, losing at the Final Four to eventual champion San Francisco and the legendary Bill Russell ... Haldorson averaged 15.0 points and 9.5 rebounds for his CU career, and was the first of only eight players to this day to score at least 1,100 points and record 700 or more rebounds ... Haldorson earned two gold medals in 1956 and 1960 as a member of the U.S. Olympic team and went on to have a brilliant career in the National Industrial Basketball League as a member of the Phillips 66ers, the team entry for Phillips 66, who then hired him after his career ... He then moved to Colorado Springs to form his own gas and oil distribution business ... In August 2010, Haldorson and his 1960 United States Olympic teammates were inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass. ... Haldorson averaged 2.9 points and 4.3 rebounds per game on the '60 team, and also won a gold medal as a member of the '56 team, when he averaged 8.6 points per contest. With Haldorson as a team member, the United States went 16-0 in the two Olympic games ... He was inducted into the 2011 class of the Colorado Springs Sports Hall of Fame (October 2011); the Pac-12 Conference Hall of Fame (March 2012); in addition to CU's Athletic Hall of Fame (second class) in 1999 and CU's now defunct Athletic Hall of Honor in 1980 ... Listed 33rd among the top 50 greatest sports figures from Minnesota in the 20th century by Sports Illustrated.

#23 KEN CHARLTON

Ken Charlton, a lanky 6-foot-6, 191-pound forward, battled through a history of knee problems to lead Colorado to back-to-back Big Eight Conference titles, two top 10 national rankings and NCAA Championship berths (1962 and 1963) ... CU was 19-7 each of those seasons, eventually succumbing to Cincinnati (the '62 champ) both years in the NCAA tournament ... He capped his career by being named the Most Outstanding Player in the 1963 NCAA Midwest Regional, when he scored 26 points in a win over Oklahoma City, and despite being hobbled by a bad knee, came back with 23 in a loss to Cincinnati; the crowd in Lawrence gave Charlton several ovations for his gritty play against the two-time defending NCAA champs ... Often going out and scoring 20-plus points a day or two after having his knees drained of excess fluid, so he could play ... CU's 12th all-time leading scorer (1,352 points) and rebounder (671), he was a consensus All-America selection in 1962-63 ... The Buffs were 53-24 during his three-year career ... He scored a career-high 35 points on two occasions, at Missouri (Mar. 5, 1962) his junior and at Kansas (Jan. 5, 1963), as a senior, just under half of CU's total points in both victories. Both scoring efforts rank among the top-25 scoring games in school history ... He was CU's all-time leading scorer at the time of his graduation (1,352) in just three seasons ... Along with his penchant for scoring, he was also a force inside, ranking among the CU rebounding charts with 671 career caroms ... He led CU in rebounding as a sophomore (8.8 per game) and as a junior (9.5), and was third his senior season (8.2) ... He averaged 20.0 points per game in four NCAA tournament contests ... During his senior year, he hit a pair of free throws in the final seconds to seal three straight road victories at Nebraska (58-56), Iowa State (58-55) and Oklahoma State (64-61) ... He was also a first-team Academic All-America selection in 1963, the first year such a squad was selected for hoops ... Previously had his jersey number (#23) honored in 1999 ... The late Sox Walseth called him "the finest offensive player I ever coached." Walseth also said, "On a leg and a half, he's better than anyone else in the Big Eight." ... He had the privilege and experience to play for the late-legendary coach John Wooden when he helped the West to an 82-79 win over the East in the annual Shrine All-Star game in 1963; he scored 15 points which was second-most on the West squad ... A long-time Boulder banking executive after his playing days ... He was elected to the CU Hall of Fame in 2010.

C-Unit is a legion of Buff fans. It consists of some superheroes and a few band members, but all students with voices raspy from screaming. Together they create an atmosphere so keen to the heart of the Buffaloes; one would be mistaken not to know of the C-Unit.

The C-Unit begins every game, sometimes almost two hours, ahead of any other fan. These fans stand outside before doors open, rain or shine, to ensure they get prime seating. Some students bring their homework, some play games while others just meticulously count down the minutes until tip off.

Every season head coach Tad Boyle, now entering his fifth year on the Boulder campus, attendance figures have increased. Last year, the total number of fans to see games at the Coors Events Center surpassed the 170,000 plateau (173,429) for the first time (topping 155,884 from 2012-13), as well as the number in overall attendance in non-conference home games to 84,133.

For the first time in men's program history, CU sold out its season ticket allotment (7,160) in the preseason prior to the 2013-14 season began.

Incredibly, also for the first time, average attendance for conference games only has averaged over 9,100 fans every under season under Boyle, the highest being in 2012-13 with an average of 10,486 fans.

During the 2012-13 season, the C-Unit and the Buffalo fan base catapulted the Coors Events Center continued into a new chapter of attendance figures. A number of attendance records fell including seven home sellouts and 12 of 15 home games exceeded 10,000 fans.

Four records emerged for season average (10,392); Pac-12 Conference total (94,371); conference average (10,486); and non-conference average (10,252).

Over the last four years at Coors Events Center, the Boyle coaching staff with the help of the C-Unit faithful has made the games in Boulder a dominant home court advantage. The Buffaloes have won 60 of 69 games since the 2010-11 campaign with an impressive .870 winning percentage. The 60 victories rank No. 1 over a four-year home span.

In addition, the four years under Boyle, the Buffaloes have enjoyed 19 sellouts generating a 14-5 record (.737).

CEC BEST CROWDS

Highest Season Home Opener: vs. Wofford (Nov. 9, 2012): 10,611 (CU, 74-59)

Highest Non-Conference Game: vs. Colorado State (Dec. 5, 2012): 11,708 (CU, 70-61)

Highest Pac-12 Conference Game: vs. Stanford (Jan. 24, 2013): 11,212 (CU, 75-54)

Last year, the C-Unit and the Coors Events Center reached the pinnacle of national exposure as ESPN's College GameDay took center stage on the CU campus. On February 22, 2014 ESPN's College GameDay Covered by State Farm made its first visit to the CU campus for a basketball game (GameDay has been to Boulder three times for football, the most recent in September 1996 for the CU-Michigan game).

The widely popular telecast was in Boulder to showcase CU and the No. 4 ranked Arizona men's basketball game. GameDay's first hour began at 8 a.m. on ESPN, with the program continuing at 9 a.m. on ESPN. A one-hour segment at 6 p.m. on ESPN preceded the Buffaloes-Wildcats tipoff later that night.

Rece Davis served as host for College GameDay with analysts Digger Phelps and Jason Williams collaborating to preview the day's top games and storylines in college hoops.

CU was selected to host GameDay from two "flex pick" options, with ESPN's other choice being the UCLA at Stanford contest, which aired ESPN2 at 7 p.m. (MT). Boyle called CU getting the nod over Stanford "huge for the program (and) great for the University of Colorado. It's great for Boulder, it's great for our state. All the eyes in college basketball that day will be focused on Boulder, Colorado."

Boyle also called the selection "a testament to our players, a testament to our fans, a testament to our coaches and how far this program has come. It's something we're really proud of. Now, it's one thing to have (GameDay) here, we've got to play well when they're here, and have a full house, energy . . . it's imperative we play well between now and then to make sure our fans have something to get excited about."

It is without a doubt the energetic and enthusiastic fans that contributed to the interest in CU Basketball.

According to the end of the year 2013-14 NCAA attendance numbers, CU ranked No. 44 in the nation (average of 9,635) and was third overall in the Pac-12 Conference. CU's tally also helped the conference finish eighth overall of the nationwide 33 conferences (7,546), in addition set a Pac-12 high (1,637,406).

In the 2012-13 NCAA findings, CU finished No. 3 nationally in the largest increase for average attendance from the previous year (+2,589) and No. 37 nationally overall among Division I attendance leaders (10,392). CU was one of 40 schools in DI to eclipse the 10,000 plateau. The Buffaloes were second overall among Pac-12 schools.

During the 2011-12 season, The Chronicle of Higher Education determined CU went from 4,637 fans in 2009 to 7,804 in 2012 for a 68 percent increase. The 68 percent makes CU the biggest gainers in attendance and a No. 1 ranking. Among the top 10 schools listed, CU is the only Pac-12 school that improved in attendance, while five Pac-12 schools decreased in attendance.

The C-Unit was also recognized as a finalist for the Naismith Student Section of the Year Award that began during the 2011-12 season. Over the last three years, the C-Unit has made quite impression on the national stage. The C-Unit tallied a Top-8 finalist tally in 2011-12 and in 2013-14; and in 2012-13 was a Top-16 semifinalist.

The loyalty of the C-Unit was rewarded when the athletic department announced they were taking 50 of the most loyal fans to the 2012 Pac-12 tournament. The entire event was called "Stampede to Staples," a journey that led to witnessing a moment in history- the very first Pac-12 Championship, which was ours to take home.

The idea started with the agreement that 50 fans would cheer on both the men's and women's basketball teams as they were both competing in Los Angeles. The "OG 50", standing for "original gang of 50" as they so fondly call themselves, were flown on a charter plane to California and the first stop was In-N-Out Burger. Needless to say, the restaurant was baffled by the amount of jubilant people that showed up, all in black and gold Colorado gear.

From that point on, the OG 50 was shuffled between the Galen Center at USC and the Staples Center, often times running through doors and entering with slow claps. People everywhere would stop and recognize the arrival of C-Unit. The C-Unit members would chant things like "We Don't Need No Altitude," a chant adapted to the current situation and altered from the Coors Events Center favorite "You Can't Win At Altitude."

Finally, the last few minutes of the Pac-12 Championship game at the Staples Center in Los Angeles boiled down between the No. 6 seed Buffaloes facing fourth seed Arizona.

Five critical minutes remained and the game was dead even. The sixth man, the cheering section, the energy that sustained the team throughout the entire season, was needed more than ever. It was down to one minute and C-Unit started to chant "I Believe That We Will Win" and when the buzzer sounded indicating no time remained; the crowd erupted.

The Buffs became just the Buffs became just the 10th team in the nation to win at least four games in four days to capture the tournament title (a CU first since winning the Big 8 in 1968-69), defeating the Wildcats, 53-51.

The loyal 50 fans were jumping up and down, grabbing onto each other, so proud of what they stood for and so proud to be representing Colorado, the new champions. Four days and four victories later, the men's basketball team was crowned the champions of the newly formed conference and the C-Unit members were there to witness every step of the way.

The journey didn't stop there for C-Unit. Then-athletic director Mike Bohn announced that instead of 50 fans, he would be taking 200 to the NCAA Tournament in New Mexico. Together the Buff fans travelled by bus to Albuquerque, N.M. In the second round, the Buffs defeated No. 6 seed UNLV, 68-64.

After the travelling and the madness of March, the team and students came back to Boulder with an exhilarating story to tell. With the buzz generated around the C-Unit brought national attention to the student cheering section. C-Unit celebrated their success with a pizza party at The Sink. Tad Boyle and Mike Bohn were a few guests of honor that showed up to thank the students for their relentless loyalty. Bohn thanked the students with a DVD copy of the Pac-12 Championship game for each of the OG 50. The 2011-2012 season was historical and momentous, one the fans and players alike will never forget.
