UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO

Often called the best of the United States' public universities by the Fiske Guide to Colleges, that belief was again strengthened when the University of Colorado received the largest donation ever given to an American public institution of higher learning. The quarter-billion dollar gift to run an institute for cognitive disabilities, it reinforced the fact that CU students not only have the minds to match its mountains, but they climb, and create, those mountains.

Founded in 1876 at the foot of the Flatirons, over 130 years has transformed the University of Colorado from a lone building on a bleak, windswept hill to one of the nation's leading public research institutions. Established in 1861, the University was formally founded in 1876, the year Colorado became a state. The doors of Old Main opened the following year with 44 students, an instructor and the President who taught and lived there with his family, pasturing his horse nearby.

The Boulder campus encompasses just under 800 acres on the main campus, east campus (which includes a research park), Williams Village and the Mountain Research Station north of nearby Nederland (which supports ecology, chemistry and geology). In 1996 the Board of Regents purchased 308 acres of land in unincorporated Boulder County, now informally known as the south campus, in an effort to insure the growth of the University well into this century.

While over 30,000 students are educated on the main campus, another 27,000 study at the University of Colorado at Denver and the Anschutz Medical Center, with 8,000 at the University of Colorado at Colorado Springs. Nine elected Regents and President Bruce Benson who was named to the position in 2008, lead the three-campus system, while each campus has a Chancellor who serves as the chief academic and administrative officer. Dr. Phil DiStefano is in his second year as chancellor of the Boulder campus.

Students can enter any of 10 schools and colleges offering more than 3,400 courses in 150 fields (of study), representing a full range of disciplines in the humanities, social sciences, physical and biological sciences, the fine and performing arts, and the professions. There are 85 majors on the bachelor's level students may choose from.

The largest University in the Centennial State is a big school, but its northern Italian architecture, named fourth in a ranking of the "most architecturally successful campuses in the country," in The Campus as a Work of Art, creates an intimate, visitor-friendly public space thanks to the varicolored sandstone and red-tiled roof facade of more than 200 buildings created by its rural Tuscany influence.

There are 20 residence halls that dot the campus, with more than 1,080 students enrolled in five residential academic programs, providing undergraduates with shared learning and living experiences. Colorado's Greek system, which is comprised of more than 2,000 students, became the first in the nation to ban alcohol from its houses.

Many of the high-tech companies located along the Front Range owe their origins to CU-Boulder's cutting-edge science.

CU has shown that RNA can act as a catalyst in biochemical reactions, developed the first classification system of human chromosomes, created the first national model to assess child development, successfully completed the first instance of human cloning, identified the battered child syndrome, discovered the process of aging is under direct genetic control, developed ways of dealing with natural hazards, created the coldest temperature on earth, and alerted the nation to heightened academic pressures on kindergarten children.

CU-Boulder has played a major role in NASA space programs, designing and building many scientific instruments flown in outer space, and graduated 18 men and women who became astronauts, including the late Jack Swigert, one of the three astronauts in the crippled Apollo 13 mission who made it dock to Earth safely from the moon. When the Hubble Space Telescope was launched in 1990, it was carrying seven major instruments, including a high-resolution spectrograph to study the evolution of stars and designed and built by an international science team led by astronomer Jack Brandt of CU-Boulder. Since Hubble has been up, CU-Boulder faculty and students have been among the top users of Hubble of any institution in the world. CU-Boulder is the only university in the country where undergraduate students have operated a NASA satellite.

The University has produced 19 Rhodes Scholars, five of which were former football student-athletes at CU, with Jim Hansen the most recent recipient in 1992. Faculty member Thomas Cech, a distinguished professor of chemistry and biochemistry, won the 1989 Nobel Prize in chemistry. Other notable alumni include former

"The University of Colorado, and Boulder, is a town which stops where the Rocky Mountains begin. Normally in America such a superb site would be occupied by a golf course, but somebody goofed and instead they built what may be the most beautifully situated campus in the world... if anyone asks you to Boulder, I have one word of advice: 'Go.'"

From the London (England) Observer Magazine article, "Us and Them," by Simon Hoggart (April 23, 1989)

CU-Boulder Mission Statement

Our mission is to advance and impart knowledge across a comprehensive range of disciplines to benefit the people of Colorado, the nation, and the world by educating undergraduate and graduate students in the accumulated knowledge of humankind, discovering new knowledge through research and creative work, and fostering critical thought, artistic creativity, professional competence, and responsible citizenship.

United States Supreme Court Justice Byron "Whizzer" White, former big band leader Glenn Miller and actor Robert Redford.

If the aphorism, "Somewhere between the Rockies and reality," seems too good to believe, then come for a visit. Start with a walk on the historic Pearl Street Mall, a downtown pedestrian mall that is the ceremonial heart of the city actually that works despite the efforts of its street theatre.

Visitors may be so taken in by the scenery, the mall, Tudors and Victorians they may forget the University that put it all together. From Pearl Street, Broadway leads directly onto campus where the University of Colorado Museum and the CU Heritage Center, in the original Old Main building, which introduces the University's past and present. Visitors can experience the University's cosmopolitan atmosphere by visiting Fiske Planetarium, Sommers-Bausch Observatory, and Norlin Library. Lively performances are staged by the Artist Series, Department of Theatre and Dance, and the College of Music, and movie fans can relax with classic, contemporary, and avant garde films. Summer months bring the annual Shakespeare Festival to campus.

Take in the fresh mountain air on any part of 100 miles of trails and 30,000 acres of open space. Climb the Flatirons or in Eldorado Canyon State Park. Swim or board sail at the Boulder Reservoir while elite runners sprint around it.

Rest assured, like the prophesy of an Arapaho Indian Chief, "If you leave Boulder, you will return."

"The first sight of the city always cheers me up however low I've been feeling. The Boulder Creek is running with snowmelt, the sun is usually shining out of the vast, navy blue sky and the air is so crisp and pure you could imagine you're drinking it rather than merely breathing."

*— Simon Hoggart,
High Life, 1999*

Boulder is not classified as a suburb of Denver; it's nestled in its own valley at the foothills of the rugged Rocky Mountains. Thus, CU students and employees can live and work with the knowledge that they're in the unique situation of being close to a big city, yet far enough away.

RANKINGS

A premier institution in and of itself, the Boulder campus is in good company with some of the finest campuses in the country:

- CU-Boulder was one of only 14 public institutions ranked as a "Best Buy" in the 2009 edition of The Fiske Guide to Colleges and annually ranks in its top four most outstanding universities in the United States based on academics, social life and quality of life.
- The U.S. News & World Report ranked CU-Boulder 34th among the nation's Top 50 Public National Universities in its 2010 Best Colleges issue. The rankings were based on factors such as academic reputation, retention, faculty resources, student selectivity and financial resources.
- The business entrepreneurship (16th) and aerospace engineering (16th) specialty programs were ranked in the top 20 nationally in the U.S. World & News Report's 2010 America's Best Colleges issue. The publication ranked the academic programs overall for engineering (33rd) and business (41st), and also cited 10 UCB graduate school programs in the nation's top 50, led by environmental law (4th) and chemistry (10th).
- And CU has the largest library collection in the Rocky Mountain region, and is 41st among the 125 largest North American research libraries with more than 11 million books, periodicals and government publications.

STUDENTS

- 30,196 students
- 25,408 undergraduates
- 4,788 graduate students
- 47% women
- 53% men
- 66% Colorado residents
- 34% nonresidents
- 14% minorities
- 4% international students
- For students, the unique campus setting provides an exceptional learning environment. CU-Boulder's five colleges and five professional schools offer more than 3,500 different courses, in over 175 areas of study, including approximately 60 academic programs at the bachelor's level, 50 at the master's level, and 40 at the doctoral level.
- Students receive focused attention from more than 1,200 full-time faculty members. Student to faculty ratio is 15 to one.
- CU-Boulder's outstanding academic reputation attracts a diverse student body from every state in the nation and over 80 foreign countries.
- Because college life involves more than excellence in academics, CU-Boulder also boasts a wide array of exciting social and recreational activities.
- Over 200 academic, political, social, religious, and recreational clubs give students places to meet new people and pursue extracurricular interests.
- About 15 percent of students participate in CU's 40 social fraternities and sororities. With a $31 million budget, CU-Boulder's student government is the largest in the nation. Other CU organizations include the Black Student Alliance, Program Council, College Republicans, the Animal Rights Group, and the United Campus Ministries.

"A campus worthy of the splendid setting with which nature has endowed it, a campus worthy to be the outward frame of the University's soul would be an educational place enhancing the morale and spirit of all who come into and go forth from its halls."

George Norlin, former CU President

BOULDER, COLORADO

"If heaven has a college town, it's probably as beautiful as Boulder."

- Peter Fish, Sunset Magazine

Boulder has more than 200 miles of public hiking and biking trails and approximately 30,000 acres of open space.

The Bolder Boulder, a 10K road run every Memorial Day, involves up to 50,000 runners, joggers, walkers and wheelchair racers.

Boulder's third flatiron towers 1,400 feet high, a few hundred feet higher than the Empire State Building.

STUNNING SURROUNDINGS

“... what may be the most beautifully situated campus in the world ... if anybody asks you to Boulder, I have one word of advice – ‘Go.’”

– Peter Fish, Sunset Magazine

Boulder was named the No. 1 sports town in the country by Outdoor magazine in 1990 and in 1999, the same publication called Boulder “The Greatest Place To Live.”

CU ranked No. 4 in a review of the 50 “most architecturally successful campuses in the country,” in The Campus as a Work of Art by Thomas Gaines.

BEAUTY LIKE NOWHERE ELSE

Boulder is not a suburb of Denver, it is nestled in its own valley at the foothills of the Rocky Mountains. CU students and faculty live and work with the knowledge that they're in a unique situation of being close to a big city, yet far enough away.

LARGE CITIES

2. DENVER

The Boulder-Denver area is the 19th largest in the U.S. and Denver is the 25th largest city (2000 census).

There are 68 mountains in the U.S. that hover above 14,000 feet, and 54 of those "14ers" are in Colorado.

Colorado's average elevation of 6,800 feet makes it the highest state in the nation.

Colorado boasts 255 sunny days per year and over 320 days where the sun will shine, adding to more hours of sunlight than Miami and San Diego.

There are just under 250 golf courses in Colorado and those courses average more than 7.8 million rounds each year.

Success Training and Exit Plan for Student-Athletes

STEPS

STEPS is a program designed to assist graduating student-athletes as they transition to life after the university setting.

The "Learn to Earn" workshop with Alice Swanson, a veteran of the Boulder Chamber of Commerce and Leeds School of Business helps with interview skills, job placement and contract negotiation.

Susan Morley from the Leeds School of Business trains about Personal Financial Planning, which is a playbook for life and is a guide to understanding and planning your financial future.

Student-athletes participate in an exit interview to discuss their experience with a senior level administrator.

Student-athletes complete a final medical physical to review medial history with the Office of Sports Medicine and to discuss lingering injuries.

Career services available for student-athletes include help with a resume / folio 21, CSO On-Line, Letters of Recommendation (4-6), Job Fairs and Post-Graduate Test Preparation.

Dr. Jan Johnson, CU's psychologist, offers one-on-one counseling sessions to athletes learning to cope with the impending life changes once their careers have ended.

The Alumni C-Club is available for student-athletes to stay connected to CU through membership.

A graduation checklist is made available as well as help with post-graduate scholarships and a professional sports counseling panel.
