SPRING FOOTBALL HISTORY

For 40 years, spring practice traditionally ended with a game between the Colorado Varsity and Alumni. Back at the turn of the century, an Alumni team usually served as the season opener for the varsity (13 times all told, with the Varsity owning an 11-0-2 edge in those games). The Varsity held a 20-3 edge in the old format of the spring series, which started back in 1953 under then head coach Dal Ward. After a pair of games, the series became dormant until 1963 when it was revived by Eddie Crowder. There was no game between 1974 and 1976, and the 1978 game was cancelled due to a blizzard.

A new format for the Varsity-Alumni game (implemented in 1988) had the alumni playing in the first and third quarters, with the first team of the varsity playing the second and fourth quarters. They were pitted against the second- and third-team members of the varsity, resulting in a competitive and fun game. The alumni and first-team varsity always wore black. This format was discontinued following 1992 for competitive reasons.

The all-time results of the Varsity-Alumni game:

Year	Score	Attend.	Year	Score	Attend.
1953 — Varsity, 6-0		2,300	1979 — Varsity, 31-0		5,277
1954 — Varsity, 7-6		1,200	1980 — Varsity, 24-14		4,688

1977 — Varsity, 43-27		9,000	1992 — #Black, 44-7		9,618

*—played in Denver due to stadium expansion

#—First-team varsity and alumni wore black jerseys, remainder of varsity white jerseys.

The format for the game in 1993 and 1994 was to pit the first-team offense and defense against the remainder of the squad. The results of this series:

Year	Score	Attend.	Year	Score	Attend.
1993 — White, 24-13		2,500	1994 — Black, 45-3		1,650

An intrasquad game was started in 1987 and was dubbed the “Black and White Game” (which has evolved into the “Black and Gold” Game). The team is divided by the coaching staff into two units of equal strength. A look at this series (note: injuries in 2001, 2002 and 2003 forced an offense-defense formatted game with a unique scoring system):

Year	Score	Attend.
1987 — Black, 6-3
1988 — White, 7-3
1989 — Black, 14-10
1990 — White, 14-10
1991 — Black, 28-9
1992 — Black, 22-19
1993 — Black, 17-7
1994 — White, 14-7
1995 — Silver, 20-6		2,600
1996 — Gold, 30-20		7,500
1997 — Gold, 14-0		6,100
1998 — Silver, 14-3		7,100
1999 — Gold, 13-10		1,400
2000 — Black, 15-6		2,000
2001 — Defense, 48-9		4,400
2002 — Offense, 59-49		3,350
2003 — Defense, 32-26		1,500
2004 — Gold, 17-13		4,500

One of the most emotional moments in CU football history came at halftime of the 1989 spring game, when the varsity and alumni saluted cancer-stricken quarterback Sal Aunese (center). Aunese passed away on Sept. 23 later that same year.

MEDIA HISTORY

Throughout the history of University of Colorado athletics, three newspapers (Boulder Camera, Denver Post and Rocky Mountain News) and KOA-Radio have been, year-in and year-out, the ones to turn to for coverage of CU sports. Here is a look at those “beat” people who have covered the Buffaloes during the years:

COLORADO PERSONNEL HISTORY

The University of Colorado has been blessed with a fiercely loyal athletic staff through the years, starting right at the top. CU has had only five faculty representatives since the end of World War II and has had but four athletic directors in its history. Not including coaches, 21 people have worked at least 15 years for the athletic department in various capacities. Five have worked over three decades: athletic director Harry Carlson (38 years), current associate AD Jon Burianek (37), sports information director and assistant/associate athletic director Fred Casotti (35), equipment manager Silver Akins (34), and business manager/assistant AD Kayo Lam (31). The most famous all-time short stint at CU? That could be Wayne Duke, who was SID for a year (1950) before eventually becoming commissioner of the Big Ten Conference. Here's a look at who's held some of the more notable managerial and support positions in the history of CU athletics:

JON BURIANEK

Senior Associate Athletic Director/Facilities Development & Business Affairs

Jon Burianek is in his 37th year with the CU athletic department, his 22nd as the associate athletic director for internal affairs. He was named a senior associate AD on July 1, 1999, with the added responsibility of facilities development to his role.

Burianek, 59, was also CU's athletic ticket manager from 1970 to 1987. He assumed those duties in 1970, as he is truly one of the athletic department's "home grown" veterans. His first job was a student assistant in the business office while attending CU in the late 1960s. After becoming ticket manager, his duties were expanded in 1979, as he became an assistant athletic director.

He attended the University of Colorado and was a chemistry major, and also attended the University of Oslo (Norway) as a junior in 1966-67, studying in the same field. When he returned to Boulder that summer, he began working in athletics, and the following year, he became basketball ticket manager while still an undergraduate.

In fact, his 36 years of full-time service to the department now ranks second all-time among non-coaches at the University and third overall. CU's first athletic director, Harry Carlson, spent 38 years with the program; Frank Potts, who coached the cross country and track teams for 41 years, is the only other person to serve CU athletics longer. In 1984, Burianek was awarded the "Honorary C" for his contributions to CU athletics.

Entering 2004, he has worked 389 consecutive CU football games (home, road and neutral), as the streak started with Colorado's 49-19 win at Air Force in 1970. He stopped counting long ago how many men's and women's basketball and volleyball games he has worked... after reaching 1,000 (the number is likely approaching 1,500).

Burianek was the tournament manager for the 1985, 1989 and 1996 NCAA West Regionals, hosted by the University and held in Denver, and served in a similar capacity for the 1990 Final Four. He is a past president of the Collegiate Athletic Business Management Association, and has been an officer in the organization since 1985.

Born August 29, 1945 in Chicago, Ill., Burianek attended Pueblo South High School where he lettered in cross country, track, and golf. He is married to the former Nancy Tilden of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. They have three children, Amanda Miller, Jason (24, who lettered in football at CU and is now a high school coach in Illinois) and Elsa (21). The Burianek family resides on a farm on the outskirts of Boulder, and they raise cattle and pigs and participate regularly in stock shows around the region.

JOHN MEADOWS

Senior Associate Athletic Director/External Affairs

John Meadows is in his sixth year as the senior associate athletic director for external affairs, as he joined the Colorado staff on February 1, 1999.

Meadows, 61, was a long-time executive with the Coors Brewing Company. He worked for over 33 years at Coors' main operation in Golden, retiring in early 1999 as the director of corporate relations, a position he held since 1984. In that role, he coordinated marketing and promotions, including building local, regional and national relationships with community leaders in a number of cities. He also worked with different local chapters in the area of community relations with organizations such as the Urban League and the National Council of LaRasa.

He was also responsible for setting forth relationships with a variety of colleges and universities around the country, primarily in the markets where Coors had breweries (Colorado, Virginia and Tennessee). He developed corporate contributions and strategies with almost a dozen schools.

He started at Coors in 1965 as an ironworker apprentice. He went into brewery administration a year later, and spent a number of years (1966-81) working in employee, labor and industrial relations. He then spent four years (1981-84) as a manager in Coors' corporate relations department, and was named the director of the same area in 1984. In his last four years at Coors, he developed and implemented strategies for Coors in diversity management.

A long-time Boulder resident, Meadows has plenty of ties to CU. He lettered for the Buffs once in football, playing tight end and defensive end in 1960 and 1961. A history major, as a sophomore he was a member of CU's 1961 Big Eight championship team that went to the Orange Bowl. He caught three passes for 24 yards in the 25-7 loss to Louisiana State in that game.

Born January 31, 1943 in Detroit, he graduated from Royal Oak High School, where he lettered in football, basketball and track. He is married to the former Lindalu Parker, a CU graduate, and they have four children, Robert, Brooke, Dodge and Sara. He is a former board member of the National Council of LaRasa and the Denver Urban League, two community service organizations. He is also currently on the advisory board for the Sportswomen of Colorado, and is a former board member of the Women's Sports Foundation.

CHRIS MAY

Associate Athletic Director/Sport Programs & Revenue Development

Chris May is in his sixth year as an associate athletic director, his second for sport programs and revenue development.

He was promoted to associate AD for marketing and revenue development on July 1, 1999, and in November 2002, he took on administrative and supervisory responsibilities for men's and women's cross country, men's and women's indoor and outdoor track and women's soccer. He was also given administrative responsibility for men's basketball and was promoted to the senior management team for the department.

He is in his 20th year in the athletic department, as he joined CU in September 1985 as a ticket office staff member. Four months later, he switched roles and was named special assistant to the associate athletic director. He was named promotions director the following June (1986), when he also took over management of the athletic department's executive car club. He was promoted to assistant athletic director for marketing and promotions on July 1, 1990, and spent nine years in that capacity.

He oversees the entire marketing and promotions area, which generates over $3 million annually from radio, television, signage and event sponsorships and sales, licensing, event development and the new video display boards, which were first installed for the 1999 season at Folsom Field. Also included in his duties are working with KCNC-TV and KOA-Radio, CU's official television and radio stations.

In 2002, May orchestrated a seven-year agreement with Learfield Sports to outsource the multi-media rights for all CU sports programming. Those rights include radio (Clear Channel), television (AT&T Broadband) and all in-stadium/arena sponsorships.

He is the committee co-chair for Athletics 2010, the department's strategic plan that serves as the blueprint for the future that includes four main goals of education, winning, facilities and culture. He is also the department's liaison for the Mile High Showdown, the annual football game against in-state rival Colorado State (held for six years in Denver before returning to the Boulder campus in 2004).

May, 41, graduated from Iowa State University with a B.S. degree in marketing in 1985. He lettered twice in track at Iowa State, running the 800-meters and on the relay teams. He earned his master's from CU in business administration in August 1988.

Born March 12, 1963 in Princeton, Ill., he graduated from Muscatine (Iowa) High School, where he lettered in cross country, track and basketball. He was inducted into Muscatine's Sports Hall of Fame in August 2002 for his role on the school's only undefeated 4x800 relay team. He is married to the former Joanne Crone, and they have two children, Lucy (9) and Jack (7).

KAREN MORRISON

Associate Athletic Director/ Compliance, Financial Aid & SWA

Karen Morrison is in her fifth year as associate athletic director at the University of Colorado, as she was promoted to the position on August 9, 2000. She was the assistant athletic director for compliance for two years prior to her promotion, and is in her 14th year overall associated with the CU athletic program. In 1998, she was also named CU's Senior Woman Administrator.

Morrison, 43, oversees several CU sport programs – women's basketball, volleyball, men's and women's skiing, men's and women's golf and men's and women's tennis. She also directs the compliance and financial aid programs. Other aspects of her role include Title IX compliance, NCAA Certification and service on several department and conference committees. She is also a member of the senior management team for the department.

Morrison is on the NCAA Women's Basketball Selection Committee, being placed on the 10-member working board starting the 2000-01 season and is serving a five-year term. She is in her second year as the liaison from the Women's Basketball Committee to the NCAA's Women's Basketball Issues Committee. She also served as the Big 12 representative on the NCAA Academics/Eligibility/Compliance Cabinet, spending four years on the NCAA Interpretations subcommittee of the Cabinet.

Morrison was appointed to the position in March 1997, after working as the assistant compliance coordinator since April 1996. Prior to that, she was an assistant coach for Ceal Barry and the CU women's basketball team. She was on the staff of five Big Eight champion teams (regular or postseason), and two Elite Eight squads. She played a major role in the Buffs securing four top 20 recruiting classes and handled scheduling chores.

She also was an instructor in kinesiology for two years on the CU campus (1989-91), and worked for two years as an attorney with the Fort Collins law firm of Frey, Lach & Michaels, P.C.

Born January 13, 1961, and spending most of her youth in Tulsa, Okla., she graduated from the University of Oklahoma with honors, earning a B.A. degree in management in 1983. She earned her Juris Doctorate in 1987 from the University of Notre Dame School of Law. At Oklahoma, she was on academic and athletic scholarship and was a member of the women's basketball team. She has two boys (4) and Max (born this April).

ANDREW PLENN

Associate Athletic Director/Development

Andrew Plenn is wrapping up his first year on the Colorado staff, as he was named associate athletic director for development on November 25, 2003. He is responsible for all aspects of athletic fund raising, including major gifts, endowments, capital projects and the annual fund.

Plenn, 37, came to CU from his alma mater, the University of Maryland, where he was director of advancement projects for two years (1997-98) and the executive director of the Terrapin Club for five (1998-2003) before being promoted to assistant athletic director for the annual fund in June 2003.

At Maryland, Plenn was responsible for the day-to-day operations of the annual scholarship fundraising program, special events, donor stewardship and benefit administration for the 7,800-member organization. He was a lead member of the development staff that exceeded its goal and raised more than $20 million in private gifts towards the construction of Maryland's state-of-the-art Comcast Center. His event experience in coordinating donor related activities includes the 2002 FedEx Orange Bowl, 2002 Chick-Fil-A Peach Bowl, 2002 Kickoff Classic and the 2001 and 2002 NCAA Men's Basketball Final Fours. Membership in the Terrapin Club increased by 100 percent and scholarship contributions increased over that percentage under his leadership. Prior to serving as the executive director, he worked as the department's director of advancement projects from 1997-98.

He earned a bachelor's degree in journalism with a concentration in public relations from Maryland in 1990. Before joining the athletic department on Maryland's College Park campus in 1997, he worked in the development offices at University of Maryland-Baltimore County (1991-92), Bishop McNamara High School (1992-96) and Villanova University (1996-97).

He was born March 29, 1968 in Southampton, N.Y. His father was in the Coast Guard, and his family lived in Guam; Juneau and Kodiak, Alaska; Norfolk, Va.; Cape Cod; and Cape May, N.J. He graduated from Lower Cape May Regional High School in 1986. He is married (Krista) and the couple has two daughters, Amy (6) and Alexandra (4).

RUPH GEBRE-MARIAM

Assistant Athletic Director/Ticketing

Ruph Gebre-Mariam is in his first year as CU's assistant athletic director for ticketing, as he was named to the position on May 28, 2004. It's his second "tour of duty" with athletics, as he first worked with the department as an undergraduate and then full-time upon his graduation. He is just the ninth ticket manager in CU's athletic history.

Gebre-Mariam, 36, graduated with a degree in marketing and international business from the University of Colorado in 1990. As a student, he worked in the athletic ticket office, and upon his graduation, was hired full-time by the department as its travel coordinator. He also had some supervisory duties in purchasing. He earned his master's degree in political science from the University of Colorado at Denver in 2002.

He left athletics in January 1998 for CIRES (Cooperative Institute for Research in Environmental Sciences), as he became an account manager in the finance unit and then as a liaison in human resources and payroll.

He was born July 28, 1967 in Madison, Wis., and graduated from Notre Dame International High School in Rome, Italy, where he lettered in soccer (midfielder). His family moved to Ethiopia when he was an infant, where he lived for 10 years before moving to West Africa (Gambia) when he was 11 and then to Italy when he was 14. He is fluent in four languages: English, Italian, French and Amharic. He is single.

JOHN KRUEGER

Assistant Athletic Director/Facilities

John Krueger is in his 19th year as a member of the athletic department, his sixth year as the assistant athletic director for facilities as he was promoted on July 1, 1999. In his position, he also continues to oversee CU's athletic facilities and grounds, the position he first was hired full-time for on August 1, 1986.

Krueger, 40, is responsible for all maintenance and scheduling for all facilities and grounds, as well as set-up procedures for athletic and special events. He also is the liaison for events such as the Bolder Boulder, the Fourth of July Fireworks and numerous concerts and graduations. As a student at CU, he worked four years under the facilities director, first working for Mark Simpson as a freshman in 1982.

He was born October 11, 1963 in Oak Park, Ill. He graduated from Lyons Township High School (LaGrange, Ill.) in 1981, and graduated from CU in 1986 with a B.S. degree in economics. A caddy for six years, he attended CU on a prestigious Evans Scholarship. In March 2004, he was named Chapter Advisor for the same Eisenhower-Evans Scholar House that he lived in while attending CU. In his new role he is the chapter's liaison to the University and Western Golf Association and provides personal, chapter, University and academic counseling to the chapter's 42 scholars. He is married to Colleen Reilly, CU associate sports information director.

MARK NELSON

Assistant Athletic Director/Academic Support Services

Mark Nelson is in his fifth year as the assistant athletic director for academic support services, as he joined the Colorado staff on May 30, 2000. He oversees all aspects of the academic needs of CU's 300-plus student-athletes.

Nelson, 40, came to CU from Utah State University, where he had spent five years as the Aggies' assistant athletic director for student services. He accepted the position under very difficult circumstances, as it had been vacant for nearly a year and he had to reorganize it from practically square one. Prior to his position at USU, he worked three years as the academic advisor at Muskingum College, a Division III school in New Concord, Ohio.

He is a member of a newly formed national committee through the N4A (National Association for Academic Advisors in Athletics) and the NFL Continuing Education program. He is involved in looking at ways to enhance the working relationship between N4A and the NFL in helping former football student-athletes return to school and obtain their degrees. He is also the chair for the Big 12 Conference Director's of Student-Athlete Support Services Committee for 2004-05, and has been a member of the N4A Legislative Affairs Committee for the past nine years.

He graduated from Bowling Green State University in 1988, earning his bachelor's degree in social work. He was a two-time all-Mid American Conference offensive tackle at BGSU, and as a junior, he was on the Falcons' 11-1 team in 1985 that lost to Fresno State in the California Bowl but at one time was ranked No. 18 in the nation. He signed as a free agent with the Kansas City Chiefs in 1987 and participated in training camp. Following the completion of his undergraduate degree, he worked four years as a substance abuse counselor at The Toledo Hospital, in conjunction with earning his master's degree in rehabilitation counseling in 1992.

Born June 22, 1964 in Grand Forks, N.D., he graduated from Thomas Jefferson High School (Bloomington, Minn.) in 1982, lettering in football, basketball and track. He was a member of the state high school champion basketball team in 1982, unknowingly having some tie to his future CU job. CU skier Eric Meyer was also a T.J. alum, while the school it beat for the title, Duluth East, eventually produced CU track stars Kara and Kendall Wheeler. He is married to the former Jacquie Gierl, and they have three children, Lindsay (12), Jessica (10) and Kyle (6).

DAVID PLATI

Assistant Athletic Director/Media Relations

David Plati is in his 21st year as the athletic department's director of media relations, and his 27th year overall in CU's Athletic Media Relations Office. He was promoted to assistant athletic director for media relations on July 1, 1988.

Plati, 44, assumed his current role on July 27, 1984, after serving for three years as the assistant SID. The youngest SID in the nation at the time of his hiring, he previously worked as a student assistant and statistician since coming to CU as a freshman in 1978. He is now the dean of SID's in the Big 12 Conference.

Plati is also an adjunct instructor in CU's School of Journalism, teaching a sports media relations class, and since April 2001 has been CU's representative on the board of directors of the Colorado Chapter of the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame.

While attending CU, Plati served four years as the information director for the Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference. He also worked for the Colorado Golf Association and for the Rocky Mountain News.

He spent his senior year in college (1982) as the public relations director with the triple-A Denver Bears Baseball Club of the American Association. He has been a member of the Denver Broncos statistics crew since 1980 (and received game balls from the NFL team for their back-to-back Super Bowl wins). In the 1980s, he worked as a statistician for TBS for NBA telecasts and continues to work freelance for several networks, both television and radio, in a similar capacity. In 2004, he was appointed by major league baseball to serve as one of three official scorers for the Colorado Rockies baseball team.

He has worked as the media relations liaison for the Bolder Boulder 10K since 1987, and also served as a media relations assistant for the Colorado Open Golf Tournament for 12 years (1980-1991). He was the media coordinator for the 1985, 1989 and 1996 NCAA West Regionals, and was the local media coordinator and NCAA liaison for the 1990 Final Four. He also was the Hula Bowl's director of game week communications for four years (1995-98).

Plati co-founded the Rocky Mountain Athletic Media Relations Directors Association (RMARA) in 1989 with Bronco PR director Jim Saccomano, and basically serves as the group's executive director.

He graduated with a bachelor's degree in public relations, along with a minor in geography, from CU in 1982. He was a member of the journalism student council and wrote for The Campus Press.

Born April 19, 1960 in New Rochelle, N.Y., Plati graduated from Woodlands High School (Hartsdale, N.Y.) in 1978, where he lettered in football and golf (and was also the school's SID his senior year). In 1984, he was awarded an "Honorary C" for his service to Colorado athletics. His younger brother (Mark) was nominated for two Grammy Awards with David Bowie in 1998 (he was a guitarist in Bowie's band for five years), and also engineered the Song-of-the-Year for 1997 (Shawn Colvin's "Sunny Came Home"). He is single.

BRIAN WINKELBAUER

Assistant Athletic Director/Student Services

Brian Winkelbauer is in his fifth year as the assistant athletic director for student services, as he was promoted to the position on August 9, 2000. He is in his 11th year overall as a member of the CU athletic staff.

Winkelbauer, 36, has primary responsibilities in the area of student services, including sports medicine, strength and conditioning, equipment, sports video, life skills and training table. He is also the staff advisor of the Student-Athlete Advisory Committee (or SAAC).

The student-athletes selected him as the 2001-02 Staff Member of the Year for his contributions and time dedicated to the success of the members of CU's 17 intercollegiate programs.

He worked five years as the special assistant to the athletic director, as he was appointed to the position in February 1996. He was hired by then-athletic director Bill Marolt to the newly created position, and then continued in that capacity under Dick Tharp. He had previously worked two years as the business manager for the Golden Buffalo Scholarship Fund. He first joined the CU staff from Wasson High School in Colorado Springs, where he taught instrumental music for two years.

He graduated from the University of Colorado in 1991 with a bachelor's degree in music education. As a student at CU, he was a member of the Golden Buffalo Marching Band, serving as the drum major for four years. He also was a member of the legendary "CU Buffoons," an all-male a cappella singing troupe.

Born August 10, 1968, in Denver, he graduated from Aurora Gateway High School in 1986. He helped compose "Ralphie's Dance," a musical number played prior to the CU mascot's taking the field before football games in 1997 and 1998, as well as the current song used for the team's entry video. An avid music enthusiast and softball player, he is married to the former Dr. Lindy Lynch. The couple has a son, Brayden Lee (2).

MIKE SMITH

Director of Equipment

Mike Smith is in his sixth year as director of equipment, and his 10th year as football equipment manager, as he was hired full-time on August 1, 1995. He is an EMC, or certified equipment manager, a status he has earned for his years of service in the profession.

He also works closely with NIKE, as CU and the sports shoe and apparel giant have been partners since 1996. He has worked with NIKE to help create new technologies that the CU football program has been the first to experiment with.

Smith, 34, returned to his alma mater from Utah State University, where he was head equipment director for one year. Prior to his employment in the Aggies athletic department, he worked for IN2 Sports for two years as a team sales specialist.

He has also worked five Hula bowls (1998-2001, 2004) as its equipment and operations manager, coordinating the many needs of almost 100 of college football's most outstanding players.

He graduated from the University of Colorado in 1992 with a bachelor's degree in mathematics. While he was a student at CU, he worked on the grounds crew, served as a Ralphie runner (accompanying the team to the 1989 Orange Bowl), and worked three years as a student equipment manager, and was head manager his senior year.

Born May 26, 1970, in Denver, Smith graduated from Broomfield High School in 1988, where he lettered in golf, basketball and baseball. An avid golfer, he plays to a single-digit handicap and has played in several area tournaments. He is single.

JUSTINA BOYD

Director of CHAMPS/ Life Skills Program

Justina Boyd is in her second year on the Colorado athletic staff, having joined the Buffaloes in March 2003 as the school's first-ever director of the CU CHAMPS Life Skills Program.

Her primary focus is to coordinate programming in the area of personal development, career development and campus and community service for CU's 300-plus student-athletes, all while working in harmony with academic and athletic commitment.

Specifically, Boyd will facilitate programs and resources to help students adjust to the challenges of university life and being a Division I student-athlete; assist students in their personal growth and career development, provide opportunities to develop their leadership skills and be positive, contributing members of their communities.

Boyd came to CU from San Diego State University, where she had worked the previous five years as the director of compliance and student affairs. She played an integral role in establishing the life skills program at SDSU in her time there.

She also worked for five years as the director of compliance, financial aid and eligibility at her alma mater, the University of Arizona. She earned two degrees at UA, her bachelor's of science in business administration and her master's of arts in education. She started her professional career there as well, working two years as an academic counselor, where she coordinated and supervised the tutorial and study programs for all intercollegiate sports. She also spent two years as an academic advisor for the football and basketball teams. At Arizona, she lettered three times in track, participating in sprints and relays.

A native of Denver, Boyd graduated from Denver's George Washington High School, where she lettered in track and field.

KRISTIN COLON

Golden Buffalo Scholarship Fund Director

Kristin Colon is in her 12th year in the CU athletic department, her ninth as the Golden Buffalo Scholarship Fund Director. She had worked the previous three years as the director of the Golden Buffalo Volunteer Network prior to her promotion in 1996.

Colon, 37, started working in the department as an intern in November, 1992, after working three years as Travel Director with Maritz Travel, based out of St. Louis, Mo.

She graduated from Scripps College in 1989 with a bachelor's degree in psychology, with an emphasis in communications. At Scripps, she lettered four times in soccer, earning all-conference honors three times, and also participated in water polo for three years. She was selected to appear in the 1988 annual edition of the American College Athletes Hall of Fame. She also served as the student director of the NCAA's "Volunteers For Youth" program from 1987-89 for the Claremont colleges.

Born July 29, 1967, in Bad Kreuznach, Germany, she graduated from Fairview High School in Boulder, where she participated in soccer and swimming. Formerly Kristin Heath, she is married to Eric Colon, and they have two sons, Heath (4) and Davis (1).

TOM DOYLE

Director of Sports Video

Tom Doyle is in his sixth year as director of sports video, returning to the CU staff for his second "tour of duty" in August 1999. He oversees the day-to-day operations of scouting video for all varsity sports at CU.

Doyle, 42, was CU's assistant director of sports video in 1996 and 1997 under Bill Wong before serving as the director of football video at the University of North Carolina for the 1998 season. Prior to coming to CU for the first time, he was the video coordinator at his alma mater, East Carolina for six years (1991-96). He graduated from ECU with a bachelor's degree in communications in 1991.

He is a 12-year veteran of producing videos for coaching staff uses in scouting and evaluation, as his expertise led to him serving as a two-time vice president of the Collegiate Sports Video Association, a professional group of national video directors. He was first elected to the post in May 2000 and served three years in all.

Born June 10, 1962 in Chicago, Ill., he graduated from West Carteret High School (Morehead City, N.C.) in 1980. A former member of the United States Air Force, he also has an extensive background in many forms of mass media, having worked in radio, television and print. He is married to the former Barbara Mullis, and is the father of three grown children, twin boys Thomas and Charles and daughter Mary.

BRUCE FLETCHER

Director of Licensing

Bruce Fletcher is in his fourth year as CU's director of licensing, joining the CU staff in June 2001, when CU's licensing office was transferred to athletics. He is thus the first athletic department employee to hold the position.

Fletcher, 39, came to Colorado from Villanova, where he spent the previous seven years as the corporate account manager for the athletic department. He was responsible for generating $2.3 million on advertising and sales revenues through local, regional and national partnerships. He also managed Villanova's licensing program including over 185 licensees and negotiated all sideline and apparel agreements for athletics.

He earned his bachelor's degree in economics from Bucknell in 1987, and received his master's in education and sports administration from Temple University in 1994.

Prior to his career at Villanova, he spent 20 months as the director of licensing at Temple University, and over five years before that as an account representative with the Xerox Corporation in Morris Plains, N.J.

He was an assistant coach with USA Water Polo in 1983 and 1984, instructing more than 80 nationally ranked players at the U.S. Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs. He worked mainly with the Under 18 Elite Team, as he was well qualified for the position due to his lettering four times in water polo at Bucknell, where he was a first-team all-East selection and team captain as a senior. He also has logged time as a high school swimming and water polo head coach.

Born December 17, 1964 in Meadowbrook, Pa., he graduated from the Lawrenceville (N.J.) School in 1983, where he lettered in swimming and water polo. His hobbies include cooking, reading, and almost any sport in the water. He is single.

DAVE GIORDANO

Director of Sales & Marketing/ Club Seats & Suites

Dave Giordano is in his fourth year as the director of sales and marketing for CU's club seats and suites. The construction of the new structure atop the east side of Folsom Field was completed prior to the 2003 season.

In his position, Giordano, 34, coordinates sales of all premium football seats for CU, including the Flatirons Club. When all is said and done, he will be responsible for almost 3,000 seats and 49 suites on both sides of the stadium.

Prior to his promotion, he worked as the athletic department's events coordinator from 1994 until taking over business manager duties for the Golden Buffalo Scholarship Fund three years later. He first came to CU from Northwestern Mutual Life, where he worked in sales for a year in the Boulder office.

He graduated from Claremont McKenna College (Claremont, Calif.) in 1991, earning his bachelor's degree in both economics and mathematics. He earned his MBA in marketing from CU-Boulder in 1992.

Born November 3, 1969 in Philadelphia, Pa., he graduated Salpointe Catholic High School (Tucson, Ariz.) in 1987, where he played soccer. His hobbies include hiking, fishing and softball. He is married to the former Shelly Simmons, and they have a daughter, Courtney (2), and a son, Ryan (1).

BILL HARRIS

Alumni C-Club Director

Bill Harris is in his fourth year as the Alumni C Club Director, as he was named to the position in May 2001. He is responsible for developing relationships with letterwinners in all sports, maintain communication with them, provide opportunities for them to return to campus and coordinate various alumni functions and activities.

Harris, 62, has continued on a part-time basis in CU's Alumni Association office, where he has been working since October 2000, to strengthen the Black Alumni Association on campus.

Also known as "Buffalo" Bill Harris, he lettered three times in football at CU between 1961 and 1963, leading the team in rushing as a junior with 582 yards in 1962. He is one of 47 players in school history to have rushed for over 1,000 yards in a CU career, as he is 26th on the all-time list with 1,486. He still stands 24th all-time in all-purpose yards, as he amassed 2,411 via rushing, receiving and returns. (For a peek at what Bill looked like as a student, refer to the H's under all-time lettermen.)

He relocated back to Colorado in 2000 from Paramus, N.J., where had resided since 1974. He was a healthcare executive for over 25 years, with extensive experience in administering acute medicine, as well as long-term and ambulatory care, personnel, community medical outreach programs and regulatory agencies. He spent most of that time as an administrator at the Bergen Pines Community Hospital before completing his medical career as the vice president of operations for the Bergen (County) Regional Medical Center where he oversaw a $25 million budget. He also was active in the community, ranging from New Jersey Supreme Court Arbitrary Committee and Community Chest work to 14 years coaching little league baseball.

An at-large member on the board of the Colorado chapter of the National Football Foundation and College Football Hall of Fame, he was a board member for several years for the Bergen County chapter and received their Distinguished American Award in 2001.

He attended CU from 1960 through 1964, but finished up his bachelor's degree in Education at Montclair (N.J.) State University in 1968, and then earned his master's in both Sociology and Business from MSU in 1972.

Following his playing days at CU, he was drafted by the NFL's New York Giants. He went on to play three years in the Canadian Football League, for Ottawa in 1964 and then Calgary in 1965-66.

Born May 30, 1942 in New Jersey, he is a graduate of Hackensack High School. He is married (Susan), is the father of two, son Trevor and daughter Lisa, and is the grandfather of two.

PREMA KHANNA

Director of Marketing

Prema Khanna is in her first year as CU's director of marketing, as she was promoted to the position July 7, 2004. She is in her third year overall the department, having worked two years as promotions manager for the Buffaloes after joining the staff in August 2002. She is responsible for coordinating marketing efforts for football, basketball and volleyball ticket sales, as well as promotions both on and-off the fields and courts, including game day atmosphere.

Khanna, 33, came to Colorado from Texas Tech, where she worked two years as the director of marketing and promotions. She got her start at Missouri, her alma mater, as a graduate assistant in 1995, and was hired full-time the following year as marketing and promotions coordinator. In 1997, she was promoted to assistant director of marketing and held that position for the next three years before moving on to Texas Tech in 2000.

She graduated from the University of Missouri with a bachelor's degree in business administration in 1995, and earned her master's degree in sports administration from MU in 1997.

Born July 29, 1971 in Haldwani, India, her family moved to Cleveland, Ohio, when she was a toddler, and then to Toronto, Ontario in second grade. She lived in Canada until she was 13, when her family established residency in Columbia, Mo. She graduated from Rock Bridge High School, where she played tennis. She is single.

DERIC SWANSON

Director of BuffVision

Deric Swanson is in his sixth year as the Director of BuffVision, coordinating all aspects of production involving the $3.6 million video display board operation for athletics (first installed at Folsom Field for the 1999 season). He's the only BuffVision director CU has ever had.

Swanson, 30, came to CU from Ascent Sports, Inc., in Denver, where he had worked for a brief time as the manager of game entertainment and video production. He had previously worked three-plus seasons with the Colorado Rockies Baseball Club, first as a stadium camera operator, and then as video production coordinator, including shooting, editing, producing and directing features and programming. He also worked the 1998 Major League Baseball All-Star Game at Coors Field, shooting and scripting special features leading up to and following the event.

In 2003, CU won a Golden Matrix Award for "Best Overall Video Display" in the university division at the Information Display and Entertainment Association (IDEA) conference in Atlanta. He was present to accept the award, along with assistant Jim Fairchild. The following year, BuffVision was awarded two distinctions for the 2004 Aurora Awards, a Platinum Best of Show statue for BuffVision In-Game Entertainment Graphics/Design and a Gold Award for The Buffalo Stampede, CU's coaches' show.

In 2004, he was selected as the CU Athletic Staff Member of the Year by the Student-Athletic Advisory Committee, and was honored with a CUSPY Award for the honor.

Einspahr is also the stat crew chief for the NFL Denver Broncos, the NBA Denver Nuggets and is the main official scorer for the Colorado Rockies baseball team.

Other members of the crew include play-by-play typist Lee Speer, who is in his 33rd season, Jack Landon (31st season), Al Bartlett (29th season), Gene DiTolla (20th season), Art Rosener (19th season), Rocky Rockafellow (18th season), Dan Riley (15th season), Bill Taylor (14th season) and Jack Bartlett (third season). DiTolla and Rosener have also been members of the Broncos' stat crew since the 1970s.

STEVE WILLARD

Director of Sports Medicine

Steve Willard is in his sixth year as CU's director of sports medicine, returning to his alma mater to head up the department on July 1, 1999. He is certified with the National Athletic Trainers Association (NATA).

Willard, 39, joined the Colorado staff from Northwestern University, where he had been the head athletics trainer for over five years after taking the position in March 1994. He went to Northwestern after having worked four years as a full-time member of Dave Burton's sports medicine staff at CU, where his main responsibilities were with the men's basketball program, though he assisted with the football team.

This is the third "tour of duty" in Boulder of sorts for Willard. He was a student assistant primarily with the football program for five years as an undergraduate at CU, where he earned his bachelor's degree in biology in 1988. He then worked as a graduate assistant trainer for two years at the University of Florida, where he received his master's degree in exercise sports science in 1990.

As a student at CU, he also interned with the National Football League's Denver Broncos for the 1987 season.

He has a major bloodline with CU Athletics, as his great uncle, J. Lee Willard, earned 16 letters in four sports between 1918 and 1922 and has the football team's most outstanding freshman award named after him.

Willard is an accomplished fisherman, and regularly spends his vacation time from CU hosting Hollywood celebrities, politicians and other famous sorts on his family's property in southwestern Colorado. From stocking the lakes with fish to hosting bull sessions around the campfire every night, he has over 100 pictures taken of him and the celebs with their prized catches. Those include photos with the late Marlon Brando when he landed a 25-pound marlin and with country music singer Sara Evans, who he taught personally how to make S'mores.

Born April 9, 1965 in Denver, he graduated from Durango (Colo.) High School, where he lettered in golf. He was also the school's assistant trainer as a junior and senior. He is single.

ANDY HOLTZAPFEL

Andy Holtzapfel is in his fourth year as an assistant athletic trainer for the Buffaloes, as he joined the CU staff in August 2001 and works solely with the football program and its 100-plus players.

Holtzapfel, 28, came to Colorado from Mississippi State University, where he worked two years as a graduate assistant trainer. One of the programs he was responsible for, baseball, made two appearances in the NCAA baseball tournament.

He graduated from Eastern Kentucky University in 1998 with bachelor's degree in athletic training, and he earned his master's in sports administration from Mississippi State in 2001.

Born November 26, 1975 in Ashland, Ky., he graduated from Covington (Ky.) High School in 1994. His hobbies include golf. His father (Mike) played football at Notre Dame between 1966-68; a brother (John) played football at Western Kentucky in 1997-98; and a sister (Katie) is currently a junior on the soccer team at Alabama. He is single.

KRISTEN PAYNE

Associate Trainer

Kristen Payne is in her sixth year as a member of the CU sports medicine staff, her second as an associate trainer as she joined the department in May 1999. She primarily works with the women's basketball program, and the men's golf and women's tennis teams.

Payne, 34, came to Colorado from the University of Iowa, where she had spent four years (1995-99) as an assistant athletic trainer. She worked with the men's wrestling program, which won the NCAA Championship all four seasons she was associated with the team.

She graduated from Washington State University with a bachelor's degree in athletic training in 1992. She earned her master's degree in exercise science in 1995 from the University of Nebraska at Omaha, where she worked as a graduate assistant trainer.

Born October 13, 1969 in Spokane, Wash., she graduated from Puyallup (Wash.) High School in 1988, where she lettered in volleyball, basketball and track. She was an honorable mention all-state performer in basketball, earning first-team all-league and all-area honors. She has a twin sister (Karen) who is a nutritionist in the Denver area. She is single.

WENDY VEATCH

Assistant Trainer

Wendy Veatch is in her fifth year as an assistant athletic trainer, as she joined the department in August 2000. She primarily works with the women's soccer and men's and women's ski programs.

Veatch, 31, came to Colorado from the United States Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, where she worked for a year.

She rotated between weightlifting, freestyle and Greco-roman wrestling and women's volleyball during her tenure at the USOTC.

In the summer of 2003, she worked the Pan American Games in Puerto Rico, where she assisted with the sports medicine needs for volleyball. Then in 2004, she worked with USA Swimming and was on the training staff for swimming, diving and synchronized swimming for the Summer Olympics in Athens, Greece.

She is a 1997 graduate of Cumberland University in Tennessee, where she earned her degree in natural science and physical education with an emphasis in sports medicine. She attended the University of South Florida for graduate school, where she earned a master's degree in physical education.

Veatch was a collegiate softball player, playing three years of junior college softball before transferring to Cumberland to complete her eligibility. She earned National Softball Coaches of America Academic All-American honors, as well as TCAC Academic All-Conference. She played both catcher and centerfield at Cumberland.

Born August 23, 1973 in Topeka, Kan., she graduated from Shawnee Heights High School in Tecumseh, Kan., where she lettered in softball. Her hobbies include tennis, golf and skiing. She is single.

ANDREA DUBAY

Assistant Trainer

Andrea Dubay is in her fourth year as an assistant athletic trainer, as she joined the department on a full-time basis in August, 2000.

She primarily works with the cross country and track teams.

Dubay, 33, was named to the position after working three years as an student athletic trainer at CU. She worked with the football and men's and women's ski team in 1999-2000 as the department's intern. She worked with the tennis and ski teams as a student trainer between 1997 and 1999. She earned her Master of Science in kinesiology and applied physiology from CU in 1999, also working as a teaching assistant in the department of kinesiology as well as serving as a graduate research assistant.

She graduated from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in 1993, majoring in biology with a minor in chemistry. She worked three years as a student trainer at SIU, working with six different sports in her tenure.

Born August 27, 1971 in Granite City, Ill., she graduated from Edwardsville (Ill.) High School in 1989, where she lettered in track (hurdles, high jump). An accomplished triathlete, she competed with almost 2,000 participants in the 2004 Iron Man Triathlon in Austria. She is single.

DR. ERIC McCARTY

Team Physician

Dr. Eric McCarty is in his second year working with the CU athletic program, joining the sports medicine team in July 2003. But he's certainly no stranger to the University or to Boulder.

McCarty, 39, accepted the Chief of Sports Medicine and Shoulder Surgery position in the Department of Orthopedics at CU's Health Sciences Center in Denver, enabling him to return to his home state where he starred as both a prep and collegian.

He returned to CU from Vanderbilt University, where he was an orthopedic surgeon, assistant professor and team physician for the Commodores' athletic teams for four years.

He graduated in 1988 from CU with a degree in kinesiology and a 3.75 grade point average. A four-time Academic All-Big Eight team member, the first in school history to be honored four times, he was an Academic All-American his senior year, when he reached the finalist stage for the Rhodes Scholarship. On the field, he earned first-team All-Big Eight honors as a senior, when he led the Buffaloes with 148 tackles, the fourth highest total at the time in team history. He had 237 career tackles in two years on defense, after moving over from offense where he played fullback (503 career rushing yards), and earned four letters.

He earned his M.D., with honors, in 1993 from the University of Colorado School of Medicine in Denver, and did his internship residency at Vanderbilt in orthopedic surgery between 1993 and 1998. Shortly thereafter, he spent a year at The Hospital for Special Surgery in New York City, where he received a fellowship in sports medicine and shoulder surgery. While residing in New York, he worked with the NFL's New York Giants.

McCarty has been the recipient of over three dozen awards in his professional career, and has had papers published on 15 occasions while contributing to several others.

He was born November 16, 1964 in Lundstuh, West Germany. He graduated from Boulder High School in 1983, where he was the state's player of the year as a senior and considered one of the nation's top recruits after rushing for 1,301 and 13 touchdowns; he won the prestigious Denver Post Gold Helmet Award that same year. He is married to the former Miriam Liddell, and they have four children, Madeleine (9), Eric Cleveland, Jr. (7), Shannon (4) and Torrance (2).

McCarty played linebacker for the Buffaloes in 1986-87.

DERRICK FITTS

Assistant Trainer

Derrick Fitts is in his second year as an assistant athletic trainer, joining the department in August 2003. He primarily works with the men's basketball and men's tennis teams.

Fitts, 27, came to Colorado from Kansas State, where he worked mainly with the women's basketball program but also had other responsibilities that included football as well as supervising student training staff.

He earned his bachelor's degree in exercise and sports science, with an emphasis in athletic training, from the University of Florida in 1999. He completed 1,500 hours of work as a student trainer at Florida, including working national title games in football for both the 1996 and 1997 seasons.

He received his graduate degree in kinesiology in 2000 from the University of Northern Colorado, working as a graduate assistant trainer while he earned his master's. He also spent four summers as a student athletic trainer intern with the NFL Denver Broncos.

Born December 10, 1976 in Santa Maria, Calif., he graduated from Heritage High School in Littleton, Colo., where he lettered in wrestling (four times), football (twice) and track (twice). He is married to the former Laura Jo Swanson, and they have a daughter, Crystal Ann-Marie (6) and son D.J. (born last October).

DR. SOURAV PODDAR

Team Physician

Dr. Sourav Poddar is his fifth year working with the CU athletic program as a team physician, his fourth with the football program. He is also directing the Optimum Performance Team in its first year.

Poddar, 32, is an assistant professor at the University of Colorado Health Sciences Center, and is on staff at the CU Sports Medicine Clinic as well as the University Medicine-Westminster. He is also the associate director of the Primary Care Sports Medicine Fellowship at the UCHSC.

He is board certified in family practice, with a CAQ certificate in sports medicine.

His specific areas of medical interest are sports medicine, heat illnesses and concussions.

He graduated from Rice University in 1993 with a degree in biochemistry, and then completed medical school at the University of Texas-Southwestern Medical Center in Dallas in 1997. At Rice, he was a member of the soccer team.

Sourav completed his residency in family practice at the UCHSC-Rose in Denver (he was chief resident during his third year in residency), and subsequently completed a fellowship in sports medicine at the University of Colorado, working with former CU team physician Rob Loeffler.

Born April 15, 1972 in Bombay, India, his family moved to the United States when he was a two-year old; he graduated from Clear Lake High School in Houston, where he lettered in soccer. He is married to the former Emily Aldeen. (His name is pronounced Shuh-rav Poe-dar.)

DR. PETER EWING

Team Physician Emeritus

Dr. Peter Ewing is in his 32nd season as CU's team physician, though in recent years he has owned "emeritus" status and is more or less activated upon request. Ewing attended most football practices and took care of general illness and orthopedic screening for years, and remains an active participant on game days. In 2001, he was presented with the Honorary "C" Club Award for his long-time association with the Buffaloes.

He is a member of the Dakota Ridge Medical Center staff in Boulder.

Born in Portchester, N.Y., Ewing graduated from Union College in Schenectady, N.Y. in 1965 with a bachelor of art degree in modern language. He graduated from the Albany Medical College, in Albany, N.Y., in 1969. He first came to Boulder as an intern in the CU-Denver Family Residency program, and has practiced in Boulder since 1972. He is married (Mary Jean) and is the father of two children.

DR. REED BARTZ

Team Physician

Dr. Reed Bartz is in his second year as a Colorado team physician, as he joined the Buff sports medicine staff of physicians in July 2003.

Bartz, 36, comes to CU from the prestigious Steadman-Hawkins Clinic in Vail, Colo. He joined the CU Sports Medicine program, which is coordinated by the Health Sciences Center in Denver. Bartz, along with Eric McCarty, share offices in both Boulder and Denver.

He earned his bachelor's degree in 1990 in economics from Southern Methodist University, where he was a member of the baseball team, and received his M.D. from the University of Texas in 1994. He performed his orthopedic residency at the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, and then received a sports medicine fellowship at Steadman-Hawkins Clinic.

During his residency and fellowship, he worked with baseball's Houston Astros and Colorado Rockies, as well as the NFL's Denver Broncos.

He has had articles published in the American Journal of Sports Medicine, Sports Medicine and Arthroscopy Review and the Journal of Bone and Joint Surgery. He has won several research awards, including the Paul Harrington Award, the Herodicus Society Award, and the Houston Orthopedic Society Research Award.

Born April 2, 1968 in Houston, Texas, he graduated from Houston's St. John's High School in 1986, where he lettered in football, baseball and tennis. He is married to the former Jennifer Kristen Vaughan, a Boulder native, and the couple has three children, daughters Claire (7) and Kassie (3), and son Jay (6).

The Sports Medicine Department also recognizes the following medical professionals who provide valuable health care services to CU's student-athletes:

Jackie Berning	Team Nutritionist
Dr. Lisa Brone	Team Physician
Dr. Dave Hestera	Team Chiropractor
Dr. Bryce Holland	Team Optometrist
Dr. Lindy Winkelbauer	Team Chiropractor

SPEED-STRENGTH & CONDITIONING

GREG FINNEGAN

Director of Speed-Strength & Conditioning

Greg Finnegan is in his second year as Colorado's director of speed-strength and conditioning, joining the Buffalo staff on May 28, 2003 after serving five years as the assistant strength and conditioning coach for the Jacksonville Jaguars of the National Football League.

Finnegan, 35, is no stranger to college athletics, as prior to working five seasons with the Jaguars, he spent two-and-a-half years as the director of Speed, Strength & Conditioning at Boston College. Prior to be named as BC's top man, he was an assistant at both BC (six months) and Kansas State (two years).

At Jacksonville, he performed a variety of duties, including developing and implementing strength, speed and conditioning programs; research methods to improve all areas of the program (speed, strength, power, balance, agility, flexibility, conditioning, supplementation and injury prevention), consult and advise the athletes on proper nutrition, and developing instructional methods of teaching technique. He also dabbled a bit in coaching, assisting the defensive staff in breaking down opponent film and helping the defensive line coach in practice. He was on the staff of the '99 Jaguar team that posted a 14-2 regular season record and advanced to the AFC Championship game. At Boston College, he oversaw the conditioning programs for 33 varsity teams, one of the largest Division I-A programs on the East Coast.

Finnegan has worked with some of the best football players in the country, including former Buffaloes Deon Figures, Chris Hudson and Chris Naeole, as well as Tony Boselli, Mark Brunell, Jimmy Smith and Fred Taylor, all while with the Jaguars.

He earned bachelor's degree in 1992 from Cornell University, where he was the first-team all-Ivy League center in both 1989 and 1990 and team captain his senior season in 1991. He received his master's from Kansas State in 1994 in exercise physiology, and it was in Manhattan where he began his career as a graduate teaching assistant. While finishing his degree at Cornell, he also had six months of experience as a student athletic trainer, assisting with injury rehabilitation and performing a research study on nutritional supplements.

Academically, he was a four-time member of the Deans' List, twice at both Cornell and Kansas State, and had earned an appointment to the U.S. Air Force Academy out of high school.

He is also a published writer, authoring several articles on his profession in strength and conditioning trade publications.

Born February 21, 1969 in Toledo, Ohio, he is married to the former Lyn Kendrick and is the father of four, daughter Abigail (9) and sons Benjamin (7), William (4) and Nathaniel (1).

TRAVIS REUST

Assistant Speed-Strength & Conditioning Coach

Travis Reust is in his third year as an assistant speed-strength and conditioning coach on the Colorado staff, coming on board in time for football two-a-days in August 2002.

He coordinates the training programs for the men's and women's basketball teams, in addition to men's and women's golf and women's tennis. He also assists with the football program.

Reust, 34, came to Colorado from fellow Big 12 Conference school Oklahoma State, where he had worked one year as a graduate assistant in the Cowboys' strength and conditioning operation. Prior to heading to OSU, he spent four years as the head strength and conditioning coordinator at East Central University (Ada, Okla.). He also worked as an assistant coach for all four years, tutoring the defensive tackles.

He earned his bachelor's degree in education (exercise science) in 2000 from ECU, where he also earned his master's in education (sports administration) two years later. His roots at ECU date back to 1994, when he was the director of all personal trainers at the school's Wellness Center.

Born March 9, 1970 in Oklahoma City, he graduated from Moore (Okla.) High School in 1988. Following high school, he was a competitive body builder for six years as well as a personal trainer. He is married to the former Brooke Crawford, and the couple has two children, daughter Kassidy (5) and son Kaden (3).

SARAH RAMEY

Assistant Speed-Strength & Conditioning Coach

Sarah Ramey is in her second year as an assistant speed-strength and conditioning coach on the Colorado staff, coming to CU in July 2003 from the staff at Kansas State University.

At Colorado, she is responsible for the training regimens for volleyball, soccer and men's and women's skiing.

Ramey, 24, worked one year as a graduate assistant at Kansas State, which followed a five-month internship with Mike Boyle Strength and Conditioning in Winchester, Mass.

She earned her bachelor's degree in exercise science from Wichita State in May 2002, graduating with an impressive 3.83 grade point average. She began worked toward her master's in kinesiology at Kansas State, and has completed over half of the work required is anticipating earned the degree in December 2003.

At Wichita State, she lettered three times in volleyball playing middle blocker and the right side, earning the Missouri Valley Conference's Academic Excellence Award in 2000. She developed an interest in strength and conditioning during her college days as an athlete and began pursuit of a career in the field early in her career.

Born May 14, 1980 in Sterling, Colo., she graduated from Andover (Kan.) High School, where she lettered in volleyball and basketball. She is single.

VERNON STEPHENS

Assistant Speed-Strength & Conditioning Coach

Vernon Stephens is in his second season on the Colorado speed-strength and conditioning staff, joining the department on September 1, 2003. He is responsible for working with both football as well as the men's and women's cross country and track teams.

Stephens, 29, came to Colorado from his alma mater, North Florida, where he started the Division II school's strength and conditioning program there in 1999 for the Ospreys' 14 programs and 230 student-athletes.

He spent two off seasons with the National Football League's Jacksonville Jaguars as a part-time strength coach under Jerry Palmieri in 2002 and Mark Asanovich in 2003. This is where he first met CU's strength coach Greg Finnegan, as he was an assistant in '02 when Stephens first worked with the NFL club.

He graduated from the University of North Florida in 1997 with a bachelor's degree in Health and Exercise Science. While at UNF, he was an undergraduate member of Sigma Upsilon chapter Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc.

Born November 30, 1974 in Jacksonville, Fla., he graduated from Stanton College Preparatory School in 1992, where he lettered three times in basketball. During his college days, he was a youth Sunday School Leader at the Westside Baptist Church. His hobbies include eating out, weightlifting, watching NBA and NFL games, cooking and watching the Food Network. He married the former Tali Shepherd this past May 29.
