MOVERS AND SHAKERS —

With the decisive win over Oklahoma State last Saturday, the Aggies were the biggest movers in this week's Associated Press (media) and USA Today/ESPN (coaches) polls. In the AP Top 25, the Aggies jumped six spots to No. 17, while A&M went from unranked to No. 20 in the coaches ranking.

It marks the first time since Sept. 30, 2002 that the Aggies are ranked in both polls.

The No. 17 AP ranking is the Aggies' highest in the media poll since Oct. 17, 1999 when A&M was ranked No. 13.

ROAD WARRIORS —

Two games ago, the Aggies snapped an eight-game road losing streak with a 34-3 win over Iowa State in Ames. Last week, the Aggies notched their first road victory over a ranked opponent since 1997 with a decisive 36-20 win over Oklahoma State (No. 16 AP/No. 15 USA Today/ESPN) in Stillwater.

THE FRAN PLAN, YEAR II —

Second-year Aggie head coach Dennis Franchione earned a reputation as a rebuild of football programs because of his ability to show immediate improvement from Year 1 to Year 2.

With a 5-1 record, the Aggies have already surpassed last season's four-win total.

For the record, the greatest one-season turnaround in school history is the 6.5 game improvement by Bear Bryant's second A&M squad that posted a 7-2-1 record in 1955 after a 1-9-0 showing in 1954. It is tied for the 12th biggest improvement in NCAA Div. I-A history. (The NCAA determines games improved by adding the difference in victories between the two seasons to the difference in losses, and then dividing by two. Ties are not counted.)

Franchione's First Two Seasons

School	Yr. 1	Yr. 2	+/-
Southwestern (Kan.) College	5-5-2	9-2	+4
Pittsburgh (Kan.) State	8-2	11-1	+3
Texas State	6-5	7-4	+1
New Mexico	3-8	6-5	+3
TCU	7-5	8-4	+1
Alabama	7-5	10-3	+3
Average Victory Improvement			+2.5
Texas A&M	4-8	5-1	+1

TURNOVER TURNAROUND —

The Aggies have made a remarkable improvement in the turnover/takeaway department in 2004, which could be attributed to a drill that is a part of every Aggie practice.

"From the first day of spring practice and every day at practice, we finish with a turnover/takeaway segment," Franchione said. "We've put a tremendous of emphasis on that. From the first day of spring practice forward, I talked to the team about turnover/takeaway margin and that we had to turn that around if we were going to turn our record around. Our offensive guys have done a magnificent job. We haven't had the ball out many times. We haven't had the ball touched by an opponent very many times. I think the turnover/takeaway segment created more of an awareness among the offensive guys because the defense is constantly trying to strip the ball from them." (From TAMU press conference, 9/21/04)

- The Aggies have given up just one turnover in the first six games of 2004. Last year the Aggies had 15 turnovers after six games.
- The Aggies were turnover-free through the first three games of the season for the first time in school history. Prior to 2004, the Aggies had never strung together even consecutive turnover-free games.
- With their fifth turnover-free game of the season against Oklahoma State last week, the Aggies have already surpassed the school record for turnover-free games in a season. It had been done three times in a season four previous times (1998, 1997, 1993 and 1990). Those four teams posted a combined 39-12-1 record and won three conference or division crowns.
- The Aggies have already grabbed 10 interceptions in 2004, which surpasses the 12-game total of six from last year.
- The Aggies are 5-0 this season when holding a turnover/takeaway advantage. In Dennis Franchione's 18 games at A&M, the Aggies are 7-0 in games with a turnover margin advantage. In games with an even or minus turnover margin, the Aggies are 2-9, with nine consecutive losses in those contests.
- The Aggies are plus-14 in turnover margin in 2004. Last season, A&M was last in the Big 12 with a minus-11 margin (30 turnovers/19 takeaways).
- The school record for fewest turnovers in a season is 15, which was originally set by the 1992 SWC Champions and matched by the 1998 Big 12 Champions.

TALKING POINTS

TERRENCE MURPHY

- Murphy is legendary for his late-night workouts on the grass practice fields. His biggest problem is find someone to workout with. "On Thursday or Saturday nights when everybody is getting ready to go out, I go run. I don't drink or smoke, so I'm just standing around most of the time if I go out. So I figure I might as well go get better," (Source: 12th Man Magazine, Aug. 2004)
- Although he rarely watches television, Murphy has an archive of the NFL Draft on ESPN dating back to 1996. (Source: 12th Man Magazine, Aug. 2004)
- Murphy returned for his senior season at Texas A&M despite being assured of being an "first-day" selection by league observers. He says, "I love A&M. That's why I stayed here. Why wouldn't you want to play another season at Texas A&M? I just wanted to go out as a winner. I didn't want to go out on a 4-8 season. I also wanted to stay for the younger guys and show them the positive things because there is so much negativity going on right now." (Source: Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Aug. 12, 2004)

ALDO DE LA GARZA

- Over the summer, the Aggies' 6-foot-4, 314-pound starter at guard became a little more dangerous by earning his black belt in jujitsu. He says, "It's like a six-second battle out there on the football field. When you're one-on-one with a guy in jujitsu, that (battle) can roll over to football, too. I feel like I kind of have the edge in football, because a lot of people just don't know how to fight." (Source: San Antonio Express-News, Aug. 9, 2004)
- One of only a handful of Hispanic football players at the Div. I level, De La Garza's sports-related role model is NFL Hall of Fame lineman Anthony Munoz.
- De La Garza's father, Manrique, was a heavy-weight boxer in Mexico.

JAXSON APPEL

- The big-hitting Appel might have gained his penchant for putting his body in harm's way as a pole vaulter in high school. He says, "My [track] coach wouldn't let me do it, so I had to sneak over there and practice when he wasn't looking." (Source: Bryan-College Station Eagle, Aug. 14, 2004)
- Appel didn't miss any games in 2003 despite suffering a dislocated elbow during fall camp and having a plate inserted in his hand after breaking it during a game.

NO PICKOFFS —

Texas A&M is the only team in NCAA Div. I-A football that hasn't throw an interception in 2004. A&M's QBs — Reggie McNeal and Ty Branyon — have combined to complete 99-of-166 pass attempts for 1,447 yards without an interception.

Ball State	214/1	0.47
North Texas	135/1	0.74
Toledo	230/2	0.87
Bowling Green	217/2	0.92

MCNEAL KEYS RECORD STREAK —

The Aggies stretched their interception-free streak to 181 attempts without a pickoff against the Cowboys, which breaks the school record of 177 set by quarterback Edd Hargett and the Aggies over a five-game span in 1968. Three A&M quarterbacks threw passes during the streak, which dates back to the second half of last season's season finale against Texas.

TURNOVER MARGIN REVERSAL —

A year after finishing 105th of 117 teams nationally and last in the Big 12 in turnover margin, the Aggies are ranked No. 1 nationally after six games in 2004. Last year, the Aggies averaged minus-.92 in turnover margin.

McNeal is the only quarterback in NCAA Div. I-A football to average more than 70 yards rushing and 200 yards passing.

He is also the only quarterback in the nation who hasn't thrown an interception in 2004 (among the NCAA's top 100 in pass efficiency)

70-YARD RUSHERS —

Texas A&M is the only school in Big 12 Conference with two rushers averaging over 70 yards per game. Sophomore running back Courtney Lewis averages 78.8 yards per game, while junior quarterback Reggie McNeal contributes 75.7 ground yards per contest.

TALKING POINTS

JOSEPH BRYANT

- "Big Red" is the first redshirt freshman ever elected to a Leadership Council under Dennis Franchione, who implemented the Council while at New Mexico in the early 1990s. Franchione says, "When we meet, Red doesn't say a lot but when he talks it's a little bit like E.F. Hutton — they all listen and respect him." (Source: AggieAthletics.com, Aug. 12, 2004)

MIKE MONTGOMERY

- Montgomery's mother, Rosie (Walker) Kellum, is a member of Stephen F. Austin Athletic Hall of Fame and was an All-America basketball player for the LadyJacks. She went on to a successful professional career where she led the Nebraska Wranglers to a league title in 1981.

DEQAWN MOBLEY

- When asked if he was worried about Terrence Murphy being double-teamed because of the loss of veterans Jamaar Taylor and Tim Van Zandt, Franchione was quick to point to JC transfer DeQawn Mobley. "DeQawn has a chance to be a Terrence Murphy. He may be faster than Terrence. He may be the fastest guy on our football team."

BEN POLLARD

- It didn't take long for veteran strength and conditioning coach Ben Pollard to make his presence felt by the A&M football team. Soon after his arrival last spring, Pollard introduced the Aggies to "Sand Pit Tuesdays." Pollard installed a 10x20-yard sand pit filled with 14 inches of sand adjacent to the grass practice fields. Tuesdays were not a day at the beach for the Aggies during voluntary summer workouts. Defensive lineman Johnny Jolly said, "You've got to have your heart right to get in that sand." Added fellow D-lineman Chris Harrington, "Dude, we dreaded that. We dreaded Tuesdays." (Source: Bryan-College Station Eagle, Aug. 22, 2004)

CHRIS ALEXANDER

- Redshirt freshman running back Chris Alexander hasn't played a down for the Aggies, but his hard-running style has already gained him a reputation among the Aggie coaches and his teammates. Coach Fran says, "A good nickname for him would be 'Thumper' because he's gonna thump the first guy. The first guy better tackle him low, or he's gonna put a thump on him and keep going." (Source: Bryan-College Station Eagle, Aug. 28, 2004)

NATIONAL PLAYER OF THE WEEK FOR MCNEAL AFTER OSU—

Junior Reggie McNeal earned National Offensive Player of the Week honors from the Walter Camp Football Foundation after gaining a career-best 386 yards of total offense and having a hand in four touchdowns in the Aggies' 36-20 upset of No. 16 Oklahoma State last Saturday.

BIG PLAYS WITH ARM, LEGS —

Perhaps the Big 12's most dangerous dual threat at quarterback, Reggie McNeal has proved capable of beating teams with his right arm and his legs.

The Aggies have made great strides on third down situations in the past two games. In the first four games, A&M converted just 17-of-52 (.327) third down tries. In the last two games, A&M has converted 16-of-29 (.552) third down situations.

TALKING POINTS

TY BRANYON

- Coach Fran's high regard for the progress of former walk-on quarterback Ty Branyon was strengthened when the sophomore came in for the final drive of the Utah game and was nearly flawless in a two-minute drill situation. Branyon, who was elected to the Leadership Council by his teammates, connected on 6-of-8 passes for 60 yards and rushed for 15 yards while leading the Aggies on a 80-yard touchdown drive. Of Branyon, Coach Franchione says, "We may not win because of Ty, but we could win with Ty." (Source: Bryan-College Station Eagle, Aug. 16, 2004)
- Branyon, along with teammates Blake Kendrick, Marques Thornton and Jacob Young, received scholarships during the last week of fall camp.
- Branyon's development came despite watching most of the 2003 season from the sidelines. He saw action in just one game and completed 1-of-2 pass attempts. Fran says, "He didn't get many reps last year, and he had to stand in practice and signal in plays. But he got smarter just doing that. He got mental reps, and he heard all the coaching, and he absorbed it and got better." (Source: Bryan-College Station Eagle, Aug. 16, 2004)

MARCUS JASMIN

- Marcus Jasmin started at defensive tackle the past two seasons, but the fifth-year senior has been supplanted in the starting lineup by redshirt freshman Red Bryant. And that's one of the reasons Jasmin thinks the A&M defense will be improved in 2004. "We've got some talented young guys that came in and pushed us for (starting) positions, and that's just making the team better because we're having to work hard every day to keep our spot or get a spot." (Source: Bryan-College Station Eagle, Aug. 13, 2004)
- Coming off the bench or as a starter, the 6-foot-5, 307-pound Jasmin is looking for a big senior season. Against Utah, Jasmin came off the bench for three tackles, including a sack. Say Franchione, "He's been very purposeful in his practice. Marcus realizes it's his senior year — and he wants to make an impact." Added teammate Courtney Lewis, "Every time he breaks into the hole, I try to run the other way. I don't want him to catch me. He's big." (Source: San Antonio Express-News, Aug. 27, 2004)

COURTNEY LEWIS

- With over 1,000 rushing as a freshman, Lewis entered some rarified air in the A&M record book. But the quiet sophomore doesn't spend much time worrying about his rushing totals. "I'm not thinking about the numbers. I'm just thinking about winning, finishing all my games, finishing stronger and being more confident." (Source: Bryan-College Station Eagle, Aug. 11, 2004)

Of Young's 35 punts, 28 have been either fair caught (14), booted into the endzone (3) or inside the opponent 20-yard line (11).

TALKING POINTS

BOONE STUTZ

- No, those aren't boos that you hear from the Aggie faithful when tight end Boone Stutz grabs a reception. Those are chants of "Boooooooooone" honoring the effort of the junior from Arlington, Texas. Other Aggies who have earned similar tributes? 275-pound fullback George "Big Woo" Woodard in the 1970s and 260-pound fullback Ja'Mar Toombs from 1998-00.
- Stutz took a long road to become A&M's deep snapper and tight end. A backup offensive lineman who could deep snap in high school, Stutz was offered the chance to walk-on at TCU by Dennis Franchione. When Coach Fran took the job at Alabama, Stutz followed him to Tuscaloosa. When Fran was hired at A&M, Boone once again followed Franchione and ended up in College Station. "Boone is a great story — from where he started in high school to where he is today. Every young athlete could draw inspiration from the Boone Stutz story," Franchione says. (Source: Dallas Morning News, 9/26)
- Stutz's adoptive parents received inspiration for his middle name of Boone from a roadsign they passed in Oklahoma on their way to pick him up. Quipped Franchione, "(It's a good thing they didn't drive through) Norman."
- An avid bass fisherman, Stutz didn't just watch Japanese pro Takahiro Omori's Bassmaster Classic victory on ESPN, he taped it for future reference.

JAMI HIGHTOWER

- A preseason honors candidate in 2003, Hightower missed the entire season last year when he contracted a severe infection during fall camp. Last season's inactivity was hard for Hightower, but it gave him new resolve for the 2004 campaign. Says Hightower, "All this was an eye-opener. I don't want to say I'm glad this happened, but it forced me to learn the hard way that everything doesn't just come to you. You're going to have problems, and it's how well you can overcome those problems that says the most about you." (Source: Houston Chronicle, 9/22)
- Quarterback Reggie McNeal says he can tell the difference with his personal bodyguard out at tackle again. "He was our masher out there, and when he was gone, you could tell it. Now he's back out there and I can see him making those big plays again. It helps everybody's confidence," McNeal says. (Source: Houston Chronicle, 9/22)

ERIK MAYES

- Cornerback Erik Mayes is just 5-foot-9, but he plays much bigger, according to A&M QB Reggie McNeal. "I told Eric if he was about 6-foot, I'd never throw to his side," McNeal says. (Source: Bryan-College Station Eagle, 9/26)

SEASON-ENDING INJURIES —

It is Texas A&M's policy to not discuss injuries unless they are season-ending. This year the Aggies have lost the services of junior wide receiver Jesse Woods (knee injury).

VESTED INTEREST —

Texas A&M is among a select group of schools nationwide utilizing the new NIKE Cooling Vests, which help keep players cool during competition by pumping cooled air into vests that players wear under their uniforms.

TEAM UNITY —

In another move to add to team unity, maroon wristbands that say "Texas A&M" on them were distributed to the team and staff. "I told the team that nobody should accept one unless they operate as one heartbeat and play only for the name on the front of our jersey, Texas A&M," Coach Franchione said.

COACHING CONTINUITY —

The Aggies' coaching staff is the same for the second consecutive year in 2004, which happened at Texas A&M just once previously since the formation of the Big 12 Conference in 1996. The other time was 2001 and 2002, although some coaching duties changed during the season in 2002 when Kevin Sumlin took over the play-calling after the third game of the year. Franchione and his coaching staff have remained from his final season at Alabama in 2002 to now.

Game Week Interview Policy

Players are available for interviews until Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. on game week. ALL interviews must be requested with a minimum 24-hour notice. Athletes and coaches usually will be available at Bright Complex at lunchtime. For best results, interviews should be conducted on Tuesdays.

Postgame Interview Policy

At home games, postgame interviews with A&M players and coaches are conducted in a specially equipped interview room located in the Bright Complex (Hangar Auditorium). The A&M locker room is closed at all times to media. Interview requests will be taken late in the game and every effort will be made to ensure that requested players are available. There will be no interviews conducted on the field, except for the television network that is broadcasting the game. At away games, similar policy is in effect and location of interviews will be determined.

Texas A&M Radio Network

The 60 station Texas A&M Sports Network broadcasts each football game on the radio in Texas and on the internet. Fans will also be able to receive the broadcast at road game stadiums on the lower end of their FM radio between 89.1 and 91.9 FM.

All Aggie football games and many A&M athletic events can heard via the Texas A&M official website at AggieAthletics.com
