

2010 SPRING SCHEDULE

Colorado is allowed 15 practices over 34 days per NCAA rules (not including spring break); sessions break down as follows: three in shorts (no contact), four in pads (no tackling, or NT below), four in pads (tackling allowed 50 percent or less of the time), four in pads (tackling allowed throughout). The primary location will be the practice fields north of Boulder Creek; the spring game will be at Folsom Field (as will the two scrimmages, weather permitting).

- Times listed are tentative; confirm daily with the CU sports information office.
- Player Interviews available before (1:30-2:15, call/notify in advance—same day is fine—to have SID personnel on hand) and after all practices (other than scrimmage days—after only).
- Pro-Timing Day (March 10: morning session with last year's seniors) is open to the media, not the public; current players will be tested April 20; that is closed).
- Spring Policies: all practices are open to the media and public; photography allowed the first 20 minutes of each practice (other than scrimmages): no formations; up close and tight as in the fall, and coaches may also request additional things not be filmed or photographed. All media members must wear their CU season credential (anyone taking notes or photos must be credentialed media). No cell phones, pets or video cameras permitted. Other restrictions may take effect for safety concerns if the team is forced inside the practice bubble due to weather.
- The spring game (April 10) is open to all; admission is free.
