OFF THE TEE...

UCLA will serve as host of the 54th Annual Pac-12 Men's Golf Championship at the Los Angeles Country Club, April 29-May 1. With five teams ranked among the top 11 in the nation, the field is as competitive as ever. Conference teams are rife with talent across all classes, and the Pac-12 Championship may, once again, present a wild finish.

Sophomore Michael Kim and junior Joël Stalter lead a California squad that enters the Championship on a hot streak. The defending Pac-12 Champion, Cal has won a school-record nine of 12 events in 2012-13 and holds a No.1 national billing by GolfWeek Magazine. The Bears have five individuals ranked among the top 30 in the Golf-Stat national rankings, led by Kim at No. 1 and Stalter at No. 8. Kim, a top contender for the Haskins Award given annually to the nation's top collegiate golfer, has finished in the top five in seven events this season and outside the top 10 just once. Stalter has turned in a trio if top-five finishes, including victories at the Arizona Intercollegiate and the John A. Burns Intercollegiate in February. Ranked 13th in the country, junior Brandon Hagy was the Bears' top finisher at the 2012 Pac-12 Championship. He shot an eight-under 280 to finish tied for fifth.

The 2012 NCAA runner up, fifth-ranked UCLA is paced by senior Pontus Widegren, the nation's seventh-ranked men's golfer. Widegren, who has shot a team-best 12 rounds under par this season, is averaging 70.62 strokes per round, 0.81 strokes under par. He has turned in four of top-five finishes in 2012-13, which includes a tournament victory at the CSU San Marcos Fall Classic in October. Senior Pedro Figueiredo placed seventh at last year's Conference tournament and is currently ranked tenth nationally. He claimed top individual honors after shooting a five-under 208 at the Prestige in February.

No. 7 Washington looks to improve upon its seventh-place finish at last year's Pac-12 Championship, and with two players ranked in the top 20 in the country, it has the pieces to contend for the Conference title. Sophomore Cheng-Tsung Pan (ranked No. 14), senior Chris Williams (No. 18) and junior Trevor Simsby lead a squad that has finished among the top three in seven of 11 tournaments this season.

Stanford, ranked No. 8 by GolfWeek, has finished among the top five in eight tournaments and claimed a victory at the U.S. Intercollegiate in March. Three Cardinal are ranked among the top 20 in the nation and none has come up bigger than sixth-ranked Patrick Rodgers this season. The sophomore has placed in the top 10 in six of nine events, winning three this season. He enters the Pac-12 Championship with a string of three straight top-10 finishes that began with a victory at the Southern Highlands Masters last month. No. 15 Cameron Wilson has logged four top-10 finishes, while defending Pac-12 individual champion Andrew Yun (No. 20) enters the week averaging 71.3 strokes per round.

Yun will attempt to become the first player to successfully defend his medalist honors since Arizona State's Paul Casey won three straight titles from 1998-2000.

USC has won a Pac-12 best 19 Conference Championships and will have the benefit of playing for number 20 in its own back yard. The Trojans field a young squad that brings plenty to the table in terms of firepower. Freshman standout Yi Keun Chang is ranked 38th by GolfStat, has finished among the top 10 in four of nine tournaments and shot a two-under 211 to win the North Ranch Intercollegiate in February. Sophomore Anthony Paolucci (No. 96) shot under par in three-consecutive tournaments earlier this season and posted top-10 finishes in each of them.

Oregon was denied its bid for a Pac-12 title when it fell to eventual champion California in a playoff last season. The upstart Ducks, led by sophomore Rak Cho, would relish a shot at redemption in 2013. They have placed among the top five in four of 11 tournaments this year, including a first-place finish at the Oregon Duck Invitational. They have placed in the top 10 in six-straight tournaments.

Meanwhile, Oregon State, which finished fifth at last year's Conference Championship, has posted five top-five finishes this year behind the play of seniors David Fink (No. 35) and Nick Chianello (No. 62). Arizona and Arizona State squared off in a number of tournaments during the regular season with mixed results. The Wildcats, paced by junior Erik Oja, have finished outside of the top 10 just once this season. Oja owns a team low 73.06 stroke average and has posted four top-10 finishes. The Sun Devils have relied on steady play from freshmen John Rahm (No. 43) and Max Rottluff en route to claiming four top-five finishes in 12 events. Colorado's Jason Burstyn, who carries a 72.2 stroke average into the Pac-12 Championship, is ranked No. 70 nationally by GolfStat. Redshirt junior Casey Halliday paces Utah with a 74.1 stroke average.

PAC-12 CHAMPIONSHIPS AT LOS ANGELES COUNTRY CLUB...

2013 marks the third time Los Angeles Country Club has hosted the Conference championship. The event was first held at LACC on May 17-18, 1963. Stanford won the team title, and USC's Kemp Richardson claimed individual medalist honors, becoming the sixth Trojan in as many seasons to do so. LACC hosted the event again in May 1983, with UCLA, led by individual co-champion Steve Pate, taking home the team title.

BEN HOGAN AWARD... Pac-12 is well represented with four players among the 10 semifinalists for the Ben Hogan Award. PAC-12 PACE OF PLAY TIPS

- First person to putt out should immediately go to the next tee. In groups of four, first two players to putt out should go immediately to the next tee and tee off.
- Recommend and encouraged that the first player to putt out has the honor on the next tee and should immediately tee off as soon as all players have holed out.
- Second to last person in group can get the flagstick. Others move toward next tee.
- Build a pre-shot routine that is well under 40 seconds so you don't ever have to worry about being "on the clock."
- Play ready golf - if someone isn't quite ready to play for whatever reason, help them out and be ready to go before them. Work together.
- Walk quickly.
- Watch errant shots for the entire group so any searches can be quick.
- Take a rake into the bunker with you.
- Elect to "finish" on the green whenever you can.
- It is okay to leave your ball on the green, unmarked, if the ball is out of the way of other players' lines. This will allow you to immediately get into your putt when it is your turn.
- Place your bag between the hole and the next tee to avoid back tracking.
- Check pin sheet, wind, and yardage books before it is your turn to hit. Do it as you are walking to your ball. Be ready when it is your turn.
- If you have the shortest drive or are furthest from the hole after the shot to the green, you need to walk quicker and be ready first.
- Hit a provisional ball whenever it may be possibly needed.
- Walk ahead to the lay up area when another player has to wait to go for a Par 5.
- If there is no Rules Official close by, proceed under Rule 3-3 and play two balls.

LAST YEAR IN PAC-12 MEN'S GOLF

For the second straight year, the Pac-12 Men's Golf Championship was decided on extra holes as the sixth-ranked CALIFORNIA Golden Bears rallied to defeat the 11th-ranked OREGON Ducks at Trysting Tree Golf Club in Corvallis, Ore., for their first-ever Conference title. California, which trailed Oregon by six strokes entering the final round of competition, needed a 25-foot birdie putt from sophomore Brandon Hagy on the final hole of regulation to force the playoff. Hagy finished the final round with a 4-under 68 to pace the Bears. California finished regulation at 12-under (1428), while Oregon carded a 2-over 362 in the final round to match the Bears at 12-under for the Championship. The teams started on No. 18 for the first playoff hole and each posted a team score of 1-over. The playoff continued on No. 16 where California posted a 1-under, thanks to another birdie by Hagy, to Oregon's 4-over to capture the title.

STANFORD junior Andrew Yun won the Pac-12 individual title, marking the 12th time a Cardinal claimed medalist honors. Yun fired a final round 4-under 68 to finish the championship at 13-under 275 (68-70-69-68), two strokes ahead of Oregon's Daniel Miernicki.

The Pac-12 had eight teams earn bids to compete at the 2012 NCAA Men's Golf Championships in one of six regional tournaments. Six teams went on to advance to the NCAA Championships, most among all conferences. UCLA, California, WASHINGTON and OREGON finished among the top eight teams in stroke-play competition and advanced to match-play round that determined the NCAA Champion. For the second straight year, UCLA sophomore Patrick Cantlay was the top Pac-12 individual finisher at the NCAA Championships, finishing in a tie for fourth with a 1-under 212 (74-72-66). Cantlay was named recipient of the Ben Hogan Award, which recognizes the top amateur and collegiate golfer.

Pac-12 Freshman of the Year honors went to Stanford's Patrick Rodgers, while Oregon senior Eugene Wong was named the Pac-12 Player of the Year. California coach Steve Desimone was tabbed Pac-12 Coach of the Year after guiding the Bears to a school-record six victories during the season.
