ON THE RANGE...

The 118th Annual NCAA Golf Championship Finals begin this week with 30 schools and six individuals from around the country comprising a 156-man field; the University of Colorado did not qualify as a team, but David Oraee did as an individual after he finished second in the NCAA Central Regional in Noblesville, Ind., on May 16 ... The tournament will be held May 29-June 3 at The Concession Club in Bradenton, Fla., voted among the Top 100 Golf Courses in the United States in 2009 by Golf Magazine (opened in 2006); the championship course (7,483 yards, par-72) has the maximum slope rating that can be attained from the championship tees (155). The course features four different strains of Bermuda grass, plenty of sand traps and no side-by-side fairways, but has maybe one-third of its holes where any water comes into play ... Oraee is the No. 4 seeded individual (not attached to a team) out of the six who advanced to the finals ... After the third round of stroke play, the field will be cut to the top 15 teams (out of 30) plus the top nine individuals not associated with those 15 teams for Monday's fourth and final round. The top eight schools will then continue on to the match play portion of the championship (June 2-3) ... The last Buff to shoot under par in the NCAA Finals was Ben Portie, who tied for 33rd with a 2-under 286 in 2002 at Columbus, Ohio (one of just three at CU to ever do so) ... The NCAA will crown a new champion, as two-time defending titlist Alabama did not advance out of regional play (the Crimson Tide finished one spot behind Colorado in Noblesville).

2015 GOLF CHAMPIONSHIPS
DIVISION I

QUICK SNAPSHOT – DAVID ORAEE

(David's last name is pronounced "or-ray.") Oraee becomes the 13th different Colorado Buffalo to play in the NCAA Championship Finals as an individual, the first since 2008. The highest a Buffalo has ever finished without his teammates present? That would be Hale Irwin's 1967 win at Shawnee-on-the-Delaware, Pa. Oraee qualified by turning in a 68-70-71—209 effort at the NCAA Central/Noblesville Regional (he was tied for the lead after the first round and one shot back after 36 holes; he finished three behind Illinois' Brian Campbell). He is currently second on the team in stroke average (72.03), one stroke behind team leader Jeremy Paul (72.00); his spring stroke average is 71.72 for 18 rounds. Golfweek has him ranked as the No. 160 player in the country, while GolfStat has him pegged at No. 193. He is majoring in Integrative Physiology and is expecting to graduate in December (he is a true four-year senior) and has plans on becoming a surgeon after his competitive golf career.

STATSHOT: He has played 1,529 holes since his last score worse than a double bogey (a quadruple bogey, the only one of his collegiate career, back in March 2013). In fact in his career (2,646 holes), he has just seven holes worse than double bogey (.0026 percent).

SCHEDULE: The practice round will have a shotgun format on Thursday, May 28 at 7:00 a.m. MDT; he will start on No. 18 with two other individuals who qualified – Gudmundur Kristjansson (East Tennessee State), who was sixth in the Southwest Regional in San Diego, and Tolver Dozier (Troy), who won a playoff in the Midwest Regional in Lubbock on the first hole by holing out from 138 yards -- who will also be his playing partners for the first two rounds. They will tee off on No. 1 at 7:00 a.m. MDT on Friday and off of No. 10 at 12:20 p.m. MDT on Saturday. The field will be repaired for Sunday's third round, and to advance to Monday's fourth round, he must be among the top nine individuals not on one of the top 15 teams. Full bio later in these notes.

QUOTING DAVID ORAEE

On His Career: "It really has gone by pretty fast. Looking back, I've played a lot of tournaments, gained a lot of experience and learned a lot of things. It's been fun. Overall, I would have liked to have played better at times, obviously, but I think everybody would say that. But it's been good and I've learned a lot of good things from it. It's been awesome, a great experience."

On His Scoring Consistency: "I have always prided myself in being able to stay away from big numbers. My brother was really big on damage control, to minimize your mistakes. I was really brought up in playing stress-free golf. I keep things from getting away from me. The only big numbers I make are if something catastrophic happens like if I hit a ball out of bounds or do something goofy."

COACH ROY EDWARDS ON ORAEE

"David played a tremendous tournament in the regional, he was consistent, very focused and managed his game extremely well on a very tough golf course. I am very excited for him. David has improved every semester, which is really hard to do. He's really been very coachable. He's a hard worker and an astute learner. And he's obviously a competitor. When you combine those things together, you get a very good player and somebody that is going to develop over time, and he did. He is disappointed that his teammates aren't going with him, and never really celebrated that he qualified (for the finals). But he'll be excited to take on the challenge of representing them and the University of Colorado in the tournament."

ORAEE IN FLORIDA

This will be Oraee's first collegiate tournament in the state of Florida; the closest he's come to playing there came last year, when the Buffs competed in the NCAA Southeast Regional at Auburn. In fact, this will be just his second visit to the state; when he was 11, he competed in the 2004 Optimist International Junior Championship in Palm Beach Gardens (he was 20th with an 85-80-73—238 scorecard; one player he bested was current UCLA junior Lorens Chan).

CU INDIVIDUALS IN THE NCAA CHAMPIONSHIP FINALS

Oraee is the 13th Colorado player to play in the NCAA Championship Finals as an individual (two have done it twice); all but two of the previous 14 appearances have taken place in the Eastern Time Zone, as will this one by Oraee. Here's a look at CU's individual player history in the NCAA Championship Finals (when not accompanied by a full CU team):

2014-15	Bradenton, Fla.	David Oraee	Sr.	?	?	?	2nd (209)

Oraee is the third Buffalo to have advanced to the NCAA Championship Finals as an individual out of regional play, which began in 1989: Bobby Kalinowski tied for ninth in the 1993 Central Regional (77-72-70—219, +3) and Derek Tolan tied for seventh in the 2008 Central Regional (73-72-73—218), both doing so when the top two individuals without a team advanced; ironically, both advanced to the finals from regional play at the OSU Scarlet Course in Columbus, Ohio.

HEAD COACH ROY EDWARDS

Roy Edwards is completing his ninth season as head coach of the Colorado men's golf team, as he was named to the position on July 14, 2006, following in the footsteps of the only two coaches the program had ever known over a span of six decades.

Edwards, 38, is just the third full-time men's golf coach in Buffalo history. He came to CU with an impressive pedigree, joining the Buffaloes from his alma mater, the University of Kansas, where he had served as the men's and women's assistant for the previous four years (2002-06). He held the same position at Vanderbilt University for a year prior to returning to KU.

Edwards replaced the late Mark Simpson, who passed away in December 2005. Simpson had held the post since 1977, when he followed in the footsteps of his college head coach, Les Fowler. Fowler took over as player-coach in 1948 and remained on board until Simpson, his assistant, replaced him. Thus, Edwards is only the program's third full-time head coach since 1948.

Edwards has embraced the most daunting task in CU golf history: when the Buffaloes joined the Pac-12 Conference on July 1, 2011, they became a member of the most prestigious men's golf conference in the nation. As many as seven schools have regularly occupied the top 25 over the last several seasons, but he has been up to the challenge and the program is poised to join the nation's elite.

It took less than three years for Edwards to put his stamp on the CU golf program, first by completing the dream of his two predecessors. One of the few major golf programs in the nation without its own true home golf course and facilities, Edwards played an integral part in working with alum Steve Kerr in the latter's acquisition of Vista Ridge Golf Club in Erie in early 2009. The club was renamed Colorado National Golf Club and now serves as the official home for the university's men's and women's golf teams. In 2012, a state-of-the-art practice facility at the course was completed (it matches any in the nation). He also initiated the Colorado Partners program, a group who contribute financially to augment the school's golf budget, and established Colorado Golf Day which is an annual celebration and fundraiser for CU golf.

On the course, under Edwards the Buffaloes have re-established themselves as a top 50 program (over 300 play Division I golf), and ended the 2014-15 fall season ranked No. 39, its highest in six years and second-best in the last dozen. His teams have won nine tournaments, the second-most under one coach in school history; Simpson's teams won 16 and Fowler's six.

The 2013-14 Buffaloes set school records for stroke average (73.76) and top five major tournament finishes (eight; all were actually in the top four), which included one win in CU's own Mark Simpson Invitational and three runner-up efforts. Over the course of four tournaments, the Buffs set two other impressive school marks: most consecutive rounds at or under par (12), and the most subpar in a row (6). According to GolfStat, CU had the nation's top performing freshman class, headlined by twin brothers Jeremy and Yannik Paul and Ethan Freeman.

The Buffs finished fourth at the Pac-12 Championships, 41 strokes behind No. 3 Stanford (1,438) and 26 behind runner-up and No. 10 Washington; No. 4 Cal was third, 12 ahead of the Buffs. But over the last two rounds, CU was second (718) to only Washington (716), making an impressive climb from 10th at the midway point into fourth place. The NCAA shipped the Buffaloes to Auburn for the regional, where CU finished 12th to end the season.

His 2012-13 team became the first in school history to win a tournament in both the fall and spring, had six top five finishes and returned to the NCAA Championships after a four-year absence, finishing eighth in the Central Regional.

In 2011-12, his sixth season, the Buffs stormed out of the gate to win its first two fall tournaments, their own Mark Simpson Invitational and Air Force's Miranda Invitational; the victories propelled CU to an early No. 10 national ranking. The team successfully navigated its way through its first season in the ultra-competitive Pac-12 Conference, finishing eighth in a league championship that featured eight teams ranked in the top 30. The Buffs just missed qualifying for the NCAA championships but Derek Fribbs was selected to play as an individual.

The 2009-10 and 2010-11 teams, his fourth and fifth, respectively, had their moments but did not advance to the postseason, though Justin Bardgett qualified individually in 2010. The Buffs finished ninth and 10th in their last two appearances in the Big 12 Conference meet. The disappointments only created more resolve in the program and thus the turnaround in year six.

His third Buffalo team (2008-09) sported one of the nation's dynamic duos in Patrick Grady and Derek Tolan, as each won two tournaments and combined for 14 top 10 finishes. But the team was also balanced as a whole, with 32 top 20 performances posted by seven different golfers, and recorded a 74.06 stroke average, second lowest in school history (topped only by 73.77 in 2003-04). The Buffs posted 11 top 10 finishes in major tournaments, the second-most in school history that included a record-tying seven in the top five, and highlighted by a 34-stroke win in the DU-Ron Moore and three runner-up finishes in the USF Olympic Club, Western Intercollegiate and its own CU-Stevenson Ranch Invitational.

In earning a fourth straight trip to the NCAA's, in the Big 12 Championships, the Buffs posted their best conference finish in 28 years when they took second place; it tied for the largest improvement from one season to another in Big 12 history after finishing 10th in 2008 (CU moved from 11th to 3rd from 1997 to 1998 as did Missouri on one occasion). The Buffs were in the hunt for the title until the back nine of the fourth and final round, when Oklahoma State was able to get some distance and eventually won by 14 shots.

His second team ('07-08), became just the third in school history to win two major tournaments in the same season, as CU won the Louisiana Classics and the Ohio State Kepler Intercollegiate. The Buffs finished 10th in the Big 12 meet, which moved to a 72-hole format for the first time, and was again invited to the NCAA's, placing 18th in the Central Regional. Junior Derek Tolan was one of two individuals to advance out of the regional into the finals, the first Buff to do so since 1993.

Edwards' first CU team (2006-07) had moderate success, and finished 11th in the Big 12 Championships; while that was disappointing, his team did something that neither Fowler's or Simpson's did, qualify for the NCAA Championships (though in fairness, more teams are invited today than when they coached, but it still was an impressive accomplishment). The team placed 20th in the NCAA Central Regional.

At Kansas, he was heavily involved in recruiting and the day-to-day functions for both the men's and women's teams, managed the Jayhawks' Birdie Club and was the main contact for both golf camps. A KU graduate, he returned to his alma mater in August 2002 as the assistant coach for both the men's and women's programs. He started his coaching career as a volunteer/graduate assistant in 1998, working three years in that capacity before moving on to Vanderbilt for his first full-time assistant coaching position.

He was the assistant for both the men's and women's teams at Vanderbilt from May 2001 until returning to his alma mater the following year. At Vandy, he headed the Commodore Golf Day and the Mason Rudolph Intercollegiate Golf Championships, and was involved in Commodore recruiting as well as the day-to-day practice and traveling schedules. He was a part of history as both teams experienced two of the best seasons in the programs' existence the 2001-02 academic year, and had a hand in coaching a pair of first-team All-Southeastern Conference players, including Brandt Snedeker, a first-team All-American, the 2007 PGA Tour Rookie of the Year and third place finisher in the 2008 Masters.

A three-year member of the Jayhawk golf team, he lettered as a senior under legendary and long-time coach Ross Randall and earned his bachelor's of science degree in business administration from Kansas in 2000. Simultaneously while finishing his degree, he worked as a volunteer assistant coach for the men's team. His career playing highlights include being named the PGA Midwest Section Player of the Year in 1995 and the Heart of America Four-Ball champion in 1997. As a student, he was also heavily involved on KU's Student-Athlete Advisory Committee and held several leadership roles on campus.

Born October 14, 1976 in Kansas City, Mo., but truly a native of Hutchinson, Kan., he was a four-year letterman in golf at Hutchinson (Kan.) High School and was an Eagle Scout. His hobbies include playing golf, cooking and traveling. Edwards is married to the former Shelly Bonfantine of Albuquerque, N.M., as they wed on July 7, 2007 (07-07-07); she is a former golfer at the University of New Mexico. They are the parents of two sons, Ashton Ross (6) and Luke Leo (3).

DAVID ORAE, COLORADO5-11, 165, Sr., 4L, Greeley, Colo. (Greeley West)

Career Notes: He was a participant for six CU wins in major tournaments; the most previous to him doing so was four by Bobby Kalinowski (1991-94). He has played in 147 rounds, fourth-most in school history, with his career stroke average of 73.48 on pace to be the second, third or fourth-best. His 38 subpar rounds set a school record (old mark was 35 by Kane Webber), and he has 48 rounds of par or better in his career (third in CU annals). He played in every major tournament that CU has scheduled during his career (49 total), and has not recorded a triple bogey (or worse) since his sophomore season (has gone 1,529 holes since his last score worse than a double bogey; his last was actually the only quadruple bogey of his collegiate career, which he scored to open the final round at the UCI Anteater Invitational in March 2013). In fact in his career (2,646 holes), he has just seven holes worse than double bogey (.0026 percent). At the 2015 CUSPY's (CU Sports Performers of the Year), he was a finalist for CU's Male Career Athletic Achievement Award.

College—This Season (Sr.)—He has a 72.03 stroke average for the season, second-best on the team (he trails Jeremy Paul by .03, or one stroke); his 71.72 for the spring is the team best. He led the team in top five finishes (3), bogey-free rounds (4) and double-bogey free rounds (22), and was second in top 10 (4) and top 20 (5) efforts, and tied for the team lead in rounds in the 60s (9) and was second in rounds of par or better (16) and third in subpar rounds (12). He had 97.1 percent of his rounds (34 of 35) count toward team scoring. He finished second in the NCAA Central/Ball State Regional (209, -7), qualifying for the NCAA Championship Finals as the lone individual out of the region as the Buffs finished sixth (missing as a team by eight strokes). He was on a redemption mission as he previously had finished 61st at the Pac-12 Championships (301, +21). He had a 72.35 stroke average for the fall season, second-best on the team (and the 11th-best for a fall season at CU), as he broke into the win column for the first time in his career by claiming medalist honors in CU's own Mark Simpson Invitational. He opened with a collegiate career-best 8-under 64 and followed it with a 67 for a 13-under 131 score – the lowest 36-hole effort in school history – en route to a five-stroke win. His other top five finish of the year came in Wyoming's Cowboy Classic, where he tied for fourth (208, -8), with his other top 10 effort in the season opener, a tie for seventh in the Air Force Invitational (212, -2). He led the team in the coaches "jumbo" stat, which is a formula to measure large numbers or lack thereof (he had just 15 holes worse than bogey—all doubles), and he scored par or better on 79.7 percent of his holes.

2013-14 (Jr.)—He finished third on the team in stroke average, both overall (73.22) and for the spring (72.77); he was CU's top performer three times, including at the Pac-12 Championships where he tied for 12th (293, +5). That followed his career best collegiate finish, a tie for second in Wyoming's Desert Intercollegiate (205, -5), which included his best single round, a 4-under 66 in the first round. He was second on the team with 79.0 percent of his holes played (666) scored at par or better, and he was one of 49 players in the nation who did not post a score worse than double bogey; he led the team in the fewest holes worse than bogey (18, all doubles). He tied for the team lead in rounds counting toward team scoring (91.9 percent, or 34 of 37). He played in all five fall events with his 73.87 stroke average fourth on the team; all five of his 54-hole scores fell between 219 and 225 with 14 of his 15 rounds falling between 70 and 76. His best result was a tie for eighth in CU's Mark Simpson Invitational (219, +3), the exact same score tying him for 30th in UTEP's Give 'Em Five invite; he tied for 20th in the UNM Tucker Invitational when he finished with a 224 (+8). At the NCAA Southeast Regional, he started out fairly strong and was poised for a top 20 finish until he struggled in the final round, eventually finishing in a tie for 39th (74-73-79—226, +10). For the year, he ranked 21st in "ham-and-egg," 22nd in greens-in-regulation (70.2 percent), 87th in par-4 scoring (4.08) and 93rd in pars per round (11.43).

2012-13 (Soph.): He played in all 13 major tournaments and finished fourth on the team in stroke average at 74.10, as he was more consistent in the fall than the spring. He did have his best major tournament finish after the break, when he tied for sixth in the Bandon Dunes Championship (-1, 215); his 72-73-70 scorecard helped the Buffaloes win the tournament and become the first team to do so with an under par team score. After an opening round 75, he bounced back with rounds of 69 and 67 for a 211 (+1) to tie for 22nd at the Stanford U.S. Intercollegiate. He tied for 42nd at the Pac-12 Championship (299, +19) and tied for 39th at the NCAA Central/Fayetteville Regional (229, +13). In the fall, he posted the first three top 10 finishes of his career, topped by a third place effort right out of the chute in the Ballyneal Challenge (72-73—145, +3). He tied for seventh in both Simpson Invitational (210, -6) and the New Mexico Tucker Invitational (217, +1), two meets that were held three days apart. He was also tied for seventh after two rounds of the fall finale, the Alister Mackenzie Invitational, after carding his back-to-back best rounds in college (67, 69) before tying for 26th after a final round 78 (214, +1). His 72.76 stroke average for the fall was third best on the team, bolstered by 53 birdies, second-most on the Buffs and tied for 31st in the country.

2011-12 (Fr.): As a true freshman, he played in all 11 regular season tournaments (the 34 rounds being the seventh most played by a freshman at CU), with his 74.50 stroke average the fourth freshman best in school history. He led the team in eagles (5), with 79 birdies and 365 pars, meaning he shot par or better on 73.4 percent of his holes. He recorded a 74-70-76-73—293 (+5) scorecard in the Pac-12 Championships, tying him for 27th overall and for sixth among the 20-plus freshmen competing; it was CU's second best score in the event and his best effort of the spring. The 293 was the best 72-hole score ever recorded by a CU freshman in any tournament and tied for the fourth best by a golfer in any class for a conference championship. For a true frosh playing under pressure in his first collegiate championship, he had a solid tournament with 11 birdies and 46 pars, the 57 holes of par or better the second most by a Buff, with just 14 bogeys and one double to round out his effort. He also had a solid effort in the Oregon Duck Invitational, tying for 38th (225, +9) and at the Bandon Dunes Championship, where he tied for 44th (226, +13). In the first round of the Alister Mackenzie Invitational to close the fall, he shot a 4-under 67, tying the school record for the low gross score by a freshman previously set by three others – and then matched it again in the spring with a 3-under 67 in the first round of the Wyoming Cowboy Classic in Scottsdale. He played in all four tournaments (one as an individual) and in the State of Colorado Cup. After an auspicious start with an 81 in CU's Mark Simpson Invitational, he came back with five straight par rounds or better, eventually tying for 47th in the Simpson (81-70-72—223, +7); he then had a strong performance in the Air Force-Miranda Invitational, as his 71-71-72—214 scorecard tied him for 12th. He was 1-1 in the Colorado Cup, winning his single match (4 and 3 versus Steve Sorenson), but lost the four ball match (2 and 1). In the final fall tournament, he recorded his collegiate best round of 67 in the Alister Mackenzie in Fairfax, Calif., eventually tying for 52nd.

ORAE, CONTINUED

High School—As a senior, he was both the All-Colorado and the 5A Front Range Player of the Year, when he owned a 70.0 stroke average. He won the Colorado 5A high school individual title at Aurora's Valley Country Club, with his 70-72—142 (-2) scorecard good for a one-shot win; he was the only player under par in the first round and was 3-over at the turn in the second before blistering the back nine with a 33 score to clinch the win. He was the first four-year All-State selection from Weld County, the Class 4A Northern Region Player of the Year twice, and Greeley West's first 5A state champion in any sport. In lettering four times at Greeley West, his stroke average was 71.72 as a freshman (with a low round 65 that included a hole-in-one) and then 71 or lower the next three years. A four-year letterman in golf for coach Larry Brinz, he captained the team his sophomore through senior seasons. He also lettered twice in basketball.

Other—2014: He won the Colorado Golf Association Stroke Play Championship at Lakewood Country Club with a 68-68-68-64—268 performance (-12), becoming the sixth Buff to win both the state's stroke and match play titles. He reached the semifinals of the CGA's Match Play Championship in his defense of his 2013 title; he won four matches but lost 3 and 2 in the semis. In the Colorado Open, he was the eighth low amateur and tied for 46th overall (70-74-74-71—289, +5). He tied for 64th in the inaugural Saguaro Amateur, held in Arizona over winter break (78-75-73—226). 2013: He became the 15th Buffalo to win the CGA Match Play Championship, cruising to the title with a 6 & 5 verdict over CSU's Parker Edens; he was dominant the entire week in winning six matches, leading after 80 of 113 holes (tied after another 24), and winning 46 holes outright and matching his partner another 44 times. He tied for 27th in the CGA State Stroke Play at Pinehurst CC (73-71-75-76—295). He tied for 39th and was the seventh low amateur in the Colorado Open (71-72-71-70—284, E). He tied for 44th in the Southwestern Amateur, turning in a 74-75-74-75—298 scorecard (+18) on the par-70 Desert Mountain Course in Scottsdale, Ariz. 2012: He was the co-medalist in the stroke play qualifying for the CGA's Match Play (69, -3) and became the No. 2 seed, though lost in the second round. He tied for 15th in the CGA Stroke Play Championship at Fort Collins Country Club (76-67-77-70—

290, +10). He finished fourth in U.S. Open Local Qualifying (38-32—70) at Collindale Golf Club in Fort Collins, advancing to Sectionals, where he tied for 44th (78-74—152, +8) at Lakeside Country Club in Houston. He tied for eighth in the Colorado Golf Association's Public Links Championship at Highland Meadows GC (206, -7). In CU's Casotti Classic, a legitimate play-your-own ball event for media and guests, he shot the lowest score in the 18 years of the tournament, an 8-under 64 (32-32) at Pelican Lakes Golf Club in Windsor. 2011: Reached the round of 32 in his first CGA Match Play Championship (at Bear Creek GC). 2010: He won the AJGA (American Junior Golf Association) Aspen Golf Classic with a 74-69-69—212 (-4) score. 2009: He set the national record for the largest margin of victory in an AJGA event when he won by 18 strokes in the AJGA Junior All-Star in Aspen (he posted a 66-64-70—200 scorecard, the 8-under 64 being a tournament record; the old mark had been 15 strokes. He tied for second in the U.S. Junior Amateur Qualifier at Boomerang Links in Greeley (69-70—139). Other Years: He was a six-time CJGA All-Star and a two-time Junior America's Cup team member.

Best Career Round In Competition—64 (-7; June 2009, AJGA Junior All-Star, Aspen Golf Club, Aspen, Colo.; -6, Colorado State Stroke Play Championships, August 10, 2014; -8, Sept. 29, 2014, CU-Mark Simpson Invitational, Colorado National Golf Club, Erie, Colo.).

Academics—He is majoring in Integrated Physiology at Colorado (expected graduation date: December 2015). A High Honor Roll member his freshman through senior years in high school, earning an academic letter all four years, with his high school grade point average a 4.2 (on a 4.0 scale).

Personal—He was born June 23, 1993 in Greeley, Colo. His hobbies include playing basketball and video games, with his likes in music ranging from Lil' Wayne to John Mayer. He was the recipient of the Denver Post Youth Excellence in Sports Award for the month of June 2009.
